

VOTE 5-YEAR BOOZE PENALTY

HOOVER, SMITH
RACE COSTLIEST
IN OUR HISTORYSenate Finds Total
Is $16,586,115.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(Special.)—Total known expenditures of $16,586,115 in behalf of the two major party candidates, recapitulated today in the report of the senate's presidential election expenses investigating committee, probably establish the Hoover-Smith campaign as the costliest in the country's history.

Figures drawn by the committee's statisticians from 353 financial statements filed with the house clerk show that $16,586,115 was raised by the Republican national committee, state Republican committees, and numerous independent organizations, including the Anti-Saloon league and other dry groups.

Expenditures in behalf of the Hoover-Smith ticket aggregated $16,586,115, including $4,064,517 spent directly by the Republican national committee.

Democratic spend $7,132,511. Receipts by the Democratic national committee, Democratic state committees, and independent groups espousing the Smith-Hoover cause totaled $7,132,511, and the expenditures shown in the summary were $11,515,511, including the $1,157,453 spent directly by the Democratic national committee.

Among the receipts credited to the Democratic national committee were $1,000,000 by the W. P. Henry, a lifelong friend of former Gov. Al Smith.

These loans were cited by Senator Nelson (Rep., Ore.), chairman of the investigation committee, as the basis for one of the four recommendations for amendment of the federal corrupt practices act submitted by the committee in the report.

One of the recommendations proposed legislation requiring more explicit reports from pre-convention campaign managers, a second suggested an amendment requiring strict accounting from state committees of all expenditures in a national campaign, and a third proposal would compel independent organizations, such as the Anti-Saloon league, to detail the exact purpose of every expenditure in a political campaign.

"Many of the independent organizations have indicated the purpose of the expenditure as being for 'service' or for some other purpose which is stated in general terms," according to the report. "Such report probably is technical compliance with the present language of the act, but it leaves no means to any one examining the report."

"Political committees long have followed the practice of incurring deficits or borrowing money for the purpose of campaign expenses," continued the report in recommending legislation to require political committees to report circumstances of loans like any other campaign fund receipt.

Campaign loans ill. "This practice," the report went on, "was followed in one case in the campaign now under examination. The report filed exhibited the fact that money was obtained on loans, but do not show the indentments upon which the loans were made nor the law require this information."

"It would seem, therefore, worth while to amend the law so that the public may have access to such information."

In addition to the $5,715,691.63 raised by the Republican national committee and the $3,954,054.12 collected by state Republican committees, independent organizations and volunteer groups supporting the Hoover-Smith ticket reported aggregate receipts of $1,815,369.32.

Among the independent organizations, the Anti-Saloon league and its various state subsidiaries collected $174,447 and spent $165,438, the Woman's Christian Temperance union collected $7,931 and spent $7,916, the Flying Squadron foundation collected $51,110 and spent $54,000, and the woman's law enforcement campaign committee collected $3,116 and spent $3,200.

The cost of each vote. Analysis of the campaign statements by the statisticians showed that the $1,292,150 votes cast for the President-elect cost approximately 44 cents each, while Democratic organizations spent 48 cents a vote for the 15,018,443 votes cast for their candidate.

The vote of expenditures for the Republican ticket was fixed at 77.97 per thousand of population, as against the Democratic rate of 69.57 per thousand.

Illness, according to the analysis.

TOLD TO COUNTYMaj. Landis Predicts
Vast Expansion.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Fifteen hundred airplanes, burdened with travelers and merchandise flying in and out of Chicago daily; a score of airplane freight yards fringing the city, and a union depot built in the lake; great airships transporting sixty million letters every 24 hours in and out of the nation's busiest terminal!

Such was the picture of Chicago five years hence drawn yesterday in a proposal received by President Antonio J. Cermak of the county board from Maj. Reed G. Landis, chairman of the board's aviation advisory committee.

The proposal asked that the commissioners retrieve the old Maywood flying field, abandoned more than a year ago when the property passed from the hands of the postoffice department to the veterans' bureau. In it Maj. Landis presented Chicago's general airport problem, surveyed the probable growth of air transportation here, and anticipated its needs.

Backed by E. O. Official.

Maj. Landis' estimate of the volume of air traffic to expect in 1933 was based on a statement of W. Irving Glover, assistant postmaster general, who predicts that within five years all first class mail will be moved in airplanes.

Chicago's daily outgoing mail averages 10,000,000 letters; the incoming mail is of similar volume. The "glitzy" mail passing through here daily amounts to 40,000,000 letters, making an approximate daily total of 60,000,000 letters, or 1,500,000 pounds of mail. From these figures Maj. Landis and the mail operators here estimate that 1,500 planes, each carrying 1,000 pounds of mail, the average present cargo, would be required to transport Chicago's first class mail in 1933.

Planes capable of carrying 3,000 or more pounds, a possibility in the near future, would reduce the number of mail ships.

"In addition there must be consideration given to the passenger service, student flying, sight seeing, air taxis, air photography, aerial advertising, etc.," Maj. Landis stated.

The backbone of accommodation for such a volume of traffic is airports.

"In general, it is my conclusion that Chicago's airport development should consist of a lake front airport and a series of outlying airports surrounding the city proper. The lake front field will be the principal point of arrival and departure for passenger and mail. It must not be equipped for storage, overhaul, etc."

"The outlying airports will be round houses, the air garages. There the ships will be stored, overhauled, and cleaned. From these fields the ships will fly to the lake front airport for their loads, and they will hop to them after unloading at the downtown field."

Included in this picture of Chicago's airports is a landing beach for amphibians and seaplanes whose construction is now being considered by President Eugene R. Pike of Lincoln park. Until the lake front airport is completed the beach will provide a landing place near the loop for passenger planes equipped to alight on water.

Fringe of Airports. Outlying airports will be located at various points surrounding Chicago, he stated. The field at Lansing, Ind., is mentioned as one such airport, and the latter proposes another field located on the Illinois Central. In addition to landing fields now being projected at Glenview, Wheeling, and Glencoe additional spots are needed in other localities.

As the western gate to the city the commissioners are asked to establish a field at Maywood. The recommendation asks that a lease be arranged for a substantial period of years with the Veterans' bureau, covering the area formerly used by the air mail. In order to permit such a transaction a joint resolution must be passed by the senate and the house of representatives.

It was on the old Maywood field that Col. Lindbergh used to land with the mail from St. Louis when the air mail editors too heavily preoccupied to be critical.

HEWING OUT A NEW CLUB FOR HIM

G. B. S. Waxes
Wrothy; Who
Said He's Sick?

LONDON, Feb. 28.—George Bernard Shaw, who, as a rule, does not object to publicity, professes to be really indignant over reports that he is very sick and that his condition has been causing anxiety to his wife and friends.

To prove that he is still very much alive, he issued tonight a "self-interview," denying what he describes as "infectious" about him circulated in the last few days. The interview follows:

"Mr. Bernard Shaw's convalescence proceeds satisfactorily. Interviewed as to reports of his illness, Shaw said:

"Those Brasserie Liars." "The special reports by special correspondents are inept fictions. Not that I would say a word to hurt the feelings of the brasserie liars who have been having a good time of it, but they have been stopped short of attempting to assassinate me by rigging me up in the dead of the frozen night to announce the news of my own illness to me a week after everybody else knew all about it and to ask whether I would like to say anything to them about it."

"But for the urgent necessity of getting back into bed before getting a chill I should have had more to say than they would have cared to hear. The simple truth is I have had an ordinary attack of what people call influenza and am now recovering in the ordinary manner."

Just Blundering Twaddle. "Instead of having the advice of half a dozen medical friends, as I usually have when there is anything the matter with me, I am being very completely cared for by one only. I am not even indulging myself with a nurse."

"My alleged persistent resistance to the calling in of medical practitioners and a radiographer by my wife in revolt, the ascetic dieting, the anticipation of my inclusion in the honor list by the government, which dated not allow my speech at the celebration of my seventieth birthday to be broadcast, and all the rest of the blundering twaddle are inventions of needy and desperate men to extract money from editors too heavily preoccupied to be critical."

Mrs. A. T. Hert, Republican Leader, Falls, Breaks Arm. Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(U. P.)—Mrs. A. T. Hert, vice chairman of the Republican national committee, slipped on the pavement in front of the committee office tonight and broke her right arm. She was taken to Emergency hospital. TOM CARR SET
FREE, SO LOOK OUT, AUSSTINN!

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 28.—(Special.)—Gov. Theodore Bilbo today granted a full pardon and restoration of citizenship to Tom Carr, unfortunate character in Sidney Smith's famous comic strip, on the petition of sixty-five residents of Lake Dawson, Miss., which set forth that Carr had not had a fair trial and that his brooding on his unjust fate was likely to undermine his reason, robbing the world of another Thomas Edison or Henry Ford.

The pardon carried the condition that Carr must "devote all his time and energy to recouping his lost fortunes with Miss Mary Gold and to evening his score with that despicable scoundrel, Henry J. Ausstinn."

The pardon, accompanied by the petition, was mailed from the executive mansion to Sidney Smith.

INDIANA ARID? 35 SENATORS ARE SNIFTERHOISTERS

Padlocked Clubs of Chicago Take Notice!

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

(Chicago Tribune Staff Service.) Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—To the visitor from Chicago accustomed to the tales that Hoosierland is a great arid land to the east of Illinois, where the populace has earnestly accepted prohibition and lives and believes in it, the news that 35 out of 50 Indiana senators are liquor imbibers is received with profound shock and amazement.

It is also surprising to learn that without much ado one may buy fairly potable Kentucky mountain ridge Bourbon in Indianapolis for $3.50 a pint. Alcohol, more plentiful, is much cheaper.

Chance for Chicago Club Owners. There may also be mentioned in passing the gay parties held nightly, at some cost of sleep to the weary traveling salesman at the Claypool hotel, the favorite legislative rendezvous. Chicago's padlocked innkeepers and night club hostesses would be removing to Indiana could they see the abandon with which setups, ginger ale, White Rock, and cracked ice are provided for these thirsty Hoosiers.

The legislators are also seen in the front rows over at England's opera house, on Monument circle, where opera and stock company have given way to a sprightly entertainment once called a "leg show." The solons and their secretaries or wives laugh and applaud in an abandoned way, especially while three college youths put on a little drunk act and relate unorthodox stories.

Hope Shumaker Doesn't Hear This. Good folks hope the news of all this debauchery doesn't seep down to Dr. Shumaker, in his secluded cell at Putnamville prison. They say the people are taking an unfair advantage of the Anti-Saloon league superintendent, who didn't choose to be away these sixty days, but was told to do so by order of the Indiana Supreme court.

Your correspondent was interested, after hearing the charge of one senator that most of his colleagues voted their extra dry bills and then hastened to their quarters for another shot of whiskey, to learn the truth of such a bold assertion.

The charge came from that staunch son of South Bend, Senator Chester A. Perkins, who had tried, a bit hopelessly to be sure, to have the women of the W. C. T. U. approve a resolution he had written condemning the eighteenth amendment. Perkins was scored bitterly at a public senate committee hearing on Wednesday, but he intends to make the senators vote on it nevertheless.

Perkins, be it known, avows he has never taken a drink of spirits since he became an unlawful nectar. And a most diligent search for some one who might have seen him hold a sly glass failed completely.

The same diligent search turned then to the other senators who sit in the state house chamber and pass countless laws at the crack of the whip from the Anti-Saloon league. The same senators, many of them, resent the badge of bigotry and intolerance which the outside world has put on their state.

A survey of the senate roster was

Reconciled to Husband in Court

MRS. SAMUEL RABINOFF.

Strategy employed by Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday effected the reconciliation of Mrs. Annitta Rabinoff and her husband, Samuel R. Rabinoff, wealthy attorney, whom she sued for separate maintenance. The Rabinoffs will appear in court today to ask dismissal of the suit.

Mrs. Rabinoff, formerly an opera star in Germany, charged in her suit, filed last December, that she had been imprisoned in her hotel by her husband. Attorney Rabinoff was unable to contest the suit because of illness.

made, in which wet senators, a leading lobbyist, a head waiter, and the men of the press gallery were consulted.

35 Senators Snifter Hoisters.

When it was promised that the bounds of good Hoosier etiquette were not to be transgressed, and the names of the so-called legislators would not be heralded to the state, your correspondent was informed that thirty-five of the senators were known as drinking men.

The witnesses personally had seen twenty-six of them, a constitutional majority of the senate, inhale the unholy booze. One expert who mingles freely with all the senators listed twenty-one with whom he had shared a friendly snifter or two, on some occasions, many more than one or two.

AS A BOOSTER MR. BREEN IS GREAT DEBATER

Fair's Publicity Director Defeats Himself.

The merits and demerits of the forthcoming Chicago World's Fair were argued in a formal but fantastic debate last night before 1,000 members of the Illinois club, an organization of Catholic women, at the Auditorium hotel.

This was the question: Will the World's Fair prove a benefit to Chicago? These were the speakers: The Rev. Claude J. Perrin, S. J., for the affirmative, and Joseph I. Breen, publicity director of the fair, for the negative.

The audience showed astonishment when Mr. Breen was introduced but their surprise was matched by the chagrin of Mr. Breen and his sponsors when two of the three judges awarded him the decision.

Educator Praised Project. For an hour Father Perrin, who is head of the English department at Loyola university, extolled the fair as an illuminating congress of science, a distinguished exposition of human progress, and a commercial boon to the city. He ridiculed the claim that the city's reputation would keep people away and that the money raised would be the booty of grafting politicians.

But Mr. Breen is a man of experience. His duties as a press agent for the fair have included listening to many arguments against the exposition. He used them to good purpose. "Times have changed since the palmy days of the Columbian exposition," asserted Mr. Breen. "The modern pace is too swift to permit people to satisfy their curiosity at such old fashioned affairs as a world's fair."

Breen Argued at Length. "There's a big question in my mind whether merchants and manufacturers can be persuaded to exhibit at our fair, because there are already so many purely commercial expositions to attract them. We have auto shows, radio shows, and great international shows such as the Leipzig fair and the exposition at Seville. We have two permanent expositions right here in Chicago—the builders' and the furniture dealers'."

"Furthermore, Chicago has a reputation as a rendezvous for robbers and murderers, and local politics has a malodorous name. How can we expect business men to subscribe a $25,000,000 fund for a fair when there is danger that it may be dissipated in pay roll and political graft?"

Shows Better Place for Cash.

Mr. Breen, whose job is to put over the fair publicity, then argued that there is a pressing need for expenditure of the fair fund elsewhere. He cited the undermanned police force, the depleted school fund, the need for street paving and subways, and wound up by recalling the financial depression in the city after the exposition of 1893.

Father Perrin delivered a powerful rebuttal, summing up the points of his own argument and attacking Mr. Breen's anxiety as to the fair's value as ill grounded and absurd. Then the judges of the debate, who also preside in Chicago courts—Judge Michael L. McKinley, Judge Harry B. Miller and Judge John M. O'Connor—retired to consider the verdict. Within a few minutes they returned and Judge O'Connor announced the decision.

Negative Gets a Shock.

"Two of the three judges voted for the negative, not because of the merit of the argument but because of its masterful presentation," said Judge O'Connor. Mr. Breen's face turned crimson and he rubbed his brow as the audience cheered the victor. Mr. Breen whispered a word to Elmer J. Buckley, chairman of the publicity division of the fair, and his immediate chief.

"Mr. Breen was drafted in this debate," said Mr. Buckley, rising to stem the hilarity. "We tried all over the city to find a debater to take the negative and finally pressed it on him against his will. He's been giving you a summary of arguments he has heard a hundred times from business men. It was eloquent, but I assure you he can and does uphold the affirmative daily with far greater success."

HAFFA AID HELPS DEFEAT HIM FOR DESERTING PALS

Bagheria, Avenged, Ready to Serve Sentence.

A new contributing factor in the defeat of Aid, Titus A. Haffa for reelection in the 4th ward came to light yesterday when Joseph Bagheria, a Haffa precinct captain who was convicted with the alderman of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, told of throwing his support to another candidate because Haffa made no effort to get his pals out of jail.

Bagheria appeared at the federal building with his attorney, Barratt O'Hara, to withdraw his appeal from a sentence of one year and one day in Leavenworth and a $5,000 fine for his part in the conspiracy. He will probably be taken to the penitentiary within a week to begin his term.

"I had intended to go down as soon as the sentence was passed," Bagheria said yesterday. "and I gave bond for just one reason—to get out and lick Haffa on election day."

"We were all in the county jail together," Bagheria, called the head of the alleged $5,000,000 conspiracy, continued, "and after one night Haffa hounded out on bond without even telling us he would try to arrange our bonds, too."

"Edward Hug, Sam Simon [now serving terms] and I were standing together when they unlocked the door for him to go out and I called to him, but he didn't even turn around. He left us all cold."

"Glee Even" at Fella.
"But I got even with him," Bagheria laughed. "I made my bond and went right out to the ward and began working for Albert [Arthur F. Albert, who defeated Haffa.] Last Tuesday when they counted the votes in my precinct Albert had 122 and Haffa had only 14, and I even begrudged him that many."

"With Bagheria withdrawing his appeal, Haffa is the only one of five convicted who is trying to have the verdict set aside by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. Hug and Simon are serving their time at Leavenworth and Henry Murray, the fifth defendant, is in the De Kalb county jail at Sycamore serving three months for a minor part in the conspiracy. Haffa's case probably will not be reviewed until late fall."

JOBLESS MINERS STAGE SCENE AT BRITISH COMMONS

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)
LONDON, Feb. 28.—The unemployed miners staged a scene at the house of commons tonight. Previously they had called at Downing street, where they were refused an interview by Premier Stanley Baldwin. They then proceeded to the house of commons.

The men, led by W. A. L. Hannington, well known communist leader, were allowed to enter the central hall, where they began sending in cards for members in order to discuss their grievances. Suddenly the men started singing the "Red Flag."

Up rushed a squad of police who, without ceremony, started ejecting them. The men did not resist. No arrests were made. Most of the men wore old bulging army packs on their shoulders and some displayed the communist badge, a hammer and a sickle, and were plentifully adorned with red emblems.

"We recommend to our clients the regular use of Palmolive. Its bland rich lather, lotion-like in effect, is possible only from a soap made of the cosmetic oils of olive and palm."

"Efficient but gentle cleansing of the skin at home is an absolute requirement of success in our work. That means the consistent, thorough use of Palmolive Soap which combines deep cleansing with the well-known cosmetic effects of palm and olive oils."

E. Massé
16 RUE DAUNOU, PARIS

AT 16 Rue Daunou, Paris, many of the world's most distinguished women are accustomed to consult E. Massé on problems of skin care. Massé gives much time and thought to home beauty methods, as well as to the treatments given in his artistic salon de beauté.

"Efficient but gentle cleansing of the skin at home is an absolute requirement of success in our work," says Massé. "Clients who follow our advice never use any soap except Palmolive, and they are the ones whose skin shows the greatest improvement as a result of the treatments we give in the salon."

Other authorities agree

All the leading figures in the Parisian world of beauty culture agree with M. Massé. Lina Cavalieri, Vincent, Mme. Valentin le Brun—these are just a few of the many French authorities who recommend this same treatment. In Berlin, Vienna, London—everywhere—one gets this same advice.

What palm and olive oils do

The need for thorough, but gentle, cleansing of the skin is universally recognized. Oil secretions, dust, dirt, make-up, clog the pores. Unless they are removed daily, they will harden into blackheads or pimples or cause sallowness and a dull, lifeless skin.

Palmolive Soap, as Massé says, "combines deep cleans-

"Daily to Esther's Hairdressing Shop come Chicago's most fashionable and fastidious women..." says Esther Talley, whose photograph and whose exclusive Tower Court Salon are shown. This shop was honored by a visit from Queen Marie of Roumania and her court on their recent Chicago visit. "They come for beauty treatments which have given this smart salon its reputation. "It is our first duty, of course, to analyze the skin and prescribe certain treatments which we know will bring prompt results. "But another equally important duty is that of advising our distinguished patrons in proper home treatments. "There is one rule upon which we never hesitate. We recommend to all of our patrons the regular use of Palmolive and warm water as a cleanser. The soothing, deep cleansing effects of the olive and palm oils combined in this famous soap are truly essential to lasting skin loveliness."

ing with the well-known cosmetic effect of palm and olive oils."

This treatment, twice a day, is the advice of beauty experts in America and all over the world, to retain skin loveliness: first, a rich lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water, to be rubbed with both hands, well into the skin. Two minutes of soap-massage; a rinse, first with warm water, then with cold. A final cold water, rinse as astringent. In this 2-minute treatment millions of women find a solution to their problems of skin care. Palmolive is now the leading complexion soap not only in the United States but also in 48 other countries.

McGURN HELD DESPITE WRIT; QUIZ GANG PAL

to Question Gunman.

Rocco Fanelli, identified with west side vice interests and with the Eller political organization, was in custody yesterday, along with Jack McGurn—held for investigation regarding the Moran gang massacre. One assertion was made that Fanelli was "identified," but the prosecutors refused to say definitely that he was identified as one of the slayers.

Like McGurn, who faced two persons who saw the killers escaping and who was identified by both, Fanelli was confronted with a group of unnamed witnesses whose testimony had to do with other details of the crime than the actual entrance and departure of the death gang from the garage at 3123 North Clark street where seven men were slain on Valentine's day.

Fanelli Quizzed on Gang.

Fanelli's name was one of the seven sent over the police teletype last Monday with orders by Deputy Commissioner John Stege to arrest them "in connection with" the seven murders. But judging from what the prosecutors and the police permitted to be known, Fanelli was not suspected of actual participation in the slayings. It was understood he was one of the new gang being formed by Claude Maddox, Danny Valle and others on the northwest side who covered the Moran territory.

Yesterday, while Attorney Thomas D. Nash was applying for a writ of habeas corpus for McGurn, but not insisting on immediate action, Fanelli walked into detective headquarters and asked if he were wanted. A conference of assistant state's attorneys and police followed and Fanelli was told to come back at 3 o'clock.

Surrenders for Questioning.

He returned at that time and was taken to an upper floor of the new police station and courthouse at 11th and State streets, where Assistant State's Attorneys Walker Butler and Harry S. Ditchburne questioned him and had others see and talk to him. They announced that he would be held over night but refused to say whether they would accuse him of murder.

They previously had agreed to place a charge of murder against McGurn by 5 o'clock tonight. This agreement was brought about by the application for a writ. Attorney Nash filed his petition with Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court, who assigned it to Judge D. J. Normoye for hearing.

Judge Normoye's clerk communicated with Deputy Stege and the arrangement was reached which allowed

Captured Gangster's Girl Friend Revealed a Divorcee and Mother of 5-Year Old Child

Louise Rolfe, 22 years old, professional model and cabaret entertainer, but for eleven months the sweetie of Jack McGurn and arrested with him on Wednesday at the Stevens hotel, yesterday told the story of her friendship with the gunman who is accused of taking part in the gang massacre of Feb. 14. She said he didn't do it.

After she had talked to the reporters in the office of Chief of Detectives Egan it was learned that Louise is the mother of a 5 year old daughter. She is divorced from her husband. The child, Bernada Bokes, was found last evening by policemen when they went to the home of Miss Rolfe's mother, Mrs. Mable Rolfe, at 834 Addison street, the address given by the young woman.

Bernada, blue eyed and curly haired, was playing on a sofa when the policemen entered. Her grandmother, a maid said, had left the apartment late Wednesday night, after receiving a telephone call informing her of the arrest of Louise, and had not returned.

At Home Anywhere with Men.

The Rolfe girl didn't pretend to be married to McGurn when she faced the reporters in Chief Egan's office yesterday afternoon. Her world doesn't go that way. She drew the folds of her swanky gray squirrel coat suavely about her hips, tossed back astoundingly yellow curls from a face gay, tanlike in lilies and synthetic coloring, and gazed steadily at the group before her.

Not belligerently. Just confidently. It was a world of men. She has known men. Even there her smile would serve. Deliberately she crossed one sleek ankle over the other, posing herself on the arm of a chair. Very slowly she smiled. Then, as the questions began, she flung out one answer after the other—quite to suit her fancy.

No one would be such a fool as to believe anything one in her predicament might say—such was her attitude. Hence, if they wanted entertainment, she'd give it to them. She didn't remember when she had met McGurn. "One couldn't really remember such things, do you think?" she gave out with a twinkle. Probably she had known him three years. Yes, lived about with him. Stevens hotel before; Bixio, Miami, other places.

"Capone?" Yes, she knew him. They were in Florida when he was. "No, not with him." Then, with a grin of appreciation at the significance of the question: "Of course, we weren't with him. Just happened to be in the same town, see?"

"Of course, Jack had nothing to do with the massacre." Even here she failed to be entirely serious. "He was in bed—all night and until noon." That was the day of the massacre—Valentine's day. The seven murders occurred about 10:30 in the morning.

She and McGurn lived at the Stevens for a month, Louise stated.

"Used the name J. Vincent D'Oro," she explained. "Room 1919A, if you want to be exact. Had our food brought up."

Stay Close to Their Room.

She admitted that after St. Valentine's day neither she nor Jack left the room, but, inferring that they had much to occupy them, "we read all the papers," and "when you're with Jack you're never bored."

She said she had attended Swift Grammar school and Senn High, adding that she did not finish at Senn. "You see, I just had to complete training for my degree as model,"—enjoying hugely the reception this met. She gave her address and the phone number and asked Chief Egan roughly if he thought she'd be allowed to see her mother.

Smokes as She Talks.

As she talked she smoked constantly, lighting one cigarette from the tip of another. Her face was elaborately made up. Her black dress of crepe, over which hung long ropes of imitation pearls, hung modishly beneath the draped fur coat. Dark eyes were heavily mascaraed and her eyebrows were thinned down to the most extreme lines. On one curved ankle a tiny gold bracelet made a line, "with my name on it, so they can't lose me," she offered.

She described the moment of arrest

Wednesday in the Stevens hotel with chagrin:

"I let them in. Thought it was the dinner we'd ordered. I went into the bathroom after I opened the door and then I heard Jack say, 'Well, hello!' and I thought it was some friends and came out."

Some one complimented her on her lack of nerves. And then for a second her nonchalance broke.

"No nerves? Of course not," she said with just a touch of bitterness. "Look!" And she held out her hands and exhibited the glassy brilliant nails that she had bitten to the flesh during her 24 hours in a cell.

Maid Tells About Rolfe.

Further information about the Rolfe family was obtained from the maid in the Addison street apartment, Miss Frances Connors. Miss Connors said Mrs. Rolfe, the mother of Louise, has been living apart from her husband, Bernard F. Rolfe, for several years.

Miss Connors stated that Louise was born and went to school for a time at Indianapolis. Then she became "stage struck" and joined a troupe that went to the west coast, the maid said. Miss Connors declared she has known Louise for six years, and was with her when she was being sought as an entertainer at the time the black bottom was at the height of its popularity.

An automobile accident in which Miss Rolfe was involved when she was 15 years old, which she refused to discuss yesterday afternoon, was a crash at Winthrop and Thorndale avenues, in which Frank A. Lasley, an attorney, Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general of Illinois, and his sister, Mrs. Margaret Friedinger, 617 Arlington place, were also injured.

committed and the public knows all about it. Naturally the police want to make some kind of a showing. They must have a goat, and McGurn is their goat."

Prosecutors Make Reply.

A reply came from the state's lawyers.

"The police are not handing us any Christmas present," they said. "It is only natural for McGurn's lawyer to talk like that."

Fanelli was one of the men convicted last fall of conspiracy with the Eller henchmen to win the April primary election through various crimes, including murder.

The case against the two others in custody, Michael Favis and Samuel La Verde, who were identified as having frequented the garage, 1723 North Wood street, where the killers hid their automobile, was continued yesterday until March 29. They are charged with being accessories after the fact.

IGOE WILL FIGHT GAS TAX BILL IN HOUSE TUESDAY

Will Demand State Pay Road Refunds.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 28.—The administration's 3-cent gas tax measure was ordered to a second reading in the house today without comment, debate or resistance. The fight against the measure being conducted by Cook county, the state agricultural association and the municipalities' league will be dormant until it is called up for third reading when Representative Michael Igoe will argue against it. In the house no roll call was taken to indicate the lineup, but it is conceded that the measure will not have as easy going as it had in the senate yesterday.

The senate's attitude was vividly illustrated during the final moments before it was sent to third reading.

Amendments Brushed Aside.

After the defeat of Senator Thomas J. Courtney's amendment to reduce the tax to 2 cents, Senator Roy Woods announced five amendments, the first on the subject of division of proceeds to include a direct payment to cities. This was voted down promptly.

"I move," said Senator Martin Carlson, in charge of the bill, after the vote was announced, "that all intended amendments to this bill be laid upon the table."

Senator Woods objected on the ground that amendments not before the senate could hardly be a subject for vote and the chair held with him.

THE DAY IN SPRINGFIELD

Gov. Emmerson's special, carrying most of his cabinet and members of the general assembly, left for the Hoover inauguration.

Senator Martin R. Carlson became acting governor, but will be replaced by Lieut. Gov. Fred R. Sterling tomorrow (Saturday).

General assembly adjourned until next Tuesday.

SENATE.

PASSED: Second of Schnackenberg bill on Cook county taxation; Barr bill to extricate downstate from Chicago tax muddle; Huebner bill to permit spreading of special assessments over twenty years instead of ten years where property is taken or damaged; Marks bill to make surplus income of trust property liable for alimony payments; Jewell bill to change definition of arson and penalties for it; Schnackenberg bill to free hands of Cook county board of review in tax muddle.

NEW BILLS: By Huebner, to require city buses to file bond or liability insurance; by Cuthbertson, to authorize municipal tax of one mill for filling streets; by Cuthbertson, to appropriate $3,000,000 for state cooperation in flood relief and prevention; by Huebner, to include all of Midwestern in Chicago sanitary district; by Marks, to provide for semi-annual payment of county taxes; by Marks, to increase penalty for driving automobile while intoxicated to maximum fine of $1,000 and jail sentence not to exceed 6 months.

HOUSE.

PASSED: Huebner bill to exempt cities of less than 5,000 from primary act; Whitely bill to reduce petition requirements for road on township line; Robinson bill to authorize lease of state land in Jacksonville for county fair.

NEW BILLS: By Igoe, to appropriate $4,000,000 for completion of Illinois waterway; by G. J. Johnson, to license insurance agents and brokers; by Robinson, to provide for the operation of schools for seven months instead of eight.

But the fate of his first amendment so clearly indicated the treatment awaiting the other four that Senator Woods announced that he would not introduce them.

House Debate Tuesday.

In the house the gas tax will probably come up for a lively debate next Tuesday. Representative Igoe has asked for a report from the state auditor on the status of highway state aid refunds to the counties of the state. It is evidently his intention to organize resistance to the bill among the counties who count among their bills receivable claims of some $1,000,000 for state aid.

The state has not paid refunds to any counties for building state aid roads in twelve years, and some of the counties are clamoring for money. Cook county has $1,000,000 of special refund coming. Mr. Igoe will seek a showdown. When Gov. Emmerson was informed of this situation he stated that he would look into it immediately with a view of paying the obligations.

NEW AILMENT FOR FOCH; STOMACH GROWS WEAKER

PARIS, Feb. 28. — (AP) — Marshal Ferdinand Foch this evening was stricken by liquid food for the first time since his collapse on Jan. 14.

His stomach, which had been a complication of diseases, shows signs of weakening and has caused great perturbation among his physicians.

Dr. Daveniere said tonight that the marshal had taken only a quart of milk and vichy water since early afternoon. The temperature of the old soldier had its customary evening rise after having been somewhat lower this morning. It was about 101 degrees at 10 p. m.

BARBER ROBBED OF $50.

James Zarz, a barber with a shop at 6000 Avenue de la République, was robbed of $50, a ring, a watch and two young women shortly after opening for business yesterday.

2 TO GOVERN AS EMMERSON GOES TO WASHINGTON

Carlson Is First and Then Sterling.

BY CARL WARREN.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 28.—Illinois this morning had one governor and tonight it had a different one. Tomorrow a third man will hold the chief executive position. And next Tuesday governor number one will be back in his chair again.

The state capitol today was dimly trying to puzzle out the gubernatorial succession situation over the week-end—probably the most extraordinary in the history of the state. It came about as a result of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's departure for Washington, D. C., to attend the Hoover inauguration. The governor, with a party of state officials and their wives, left here on a special train at 4 p. m.

Carlson Governor for Day.

During Mr. Emmerson's absence, Senator Martin R. Carlson of Moline will be governor for a day and a half while Lieut. Gov. Fred R. Sterling will serve for two days and a half. Constitutional experts decreed it like this:

Gov. Emmerson's train crossed the Indiana boundary line at 7 p. m. and the constitution provides that when a governor leaves the state the lieutenant governor takes over his powers. But Mr. Sterling is in Florida, so the powers automatically pass on to Senator Carlson who, as president pro tem of the senate, is next in line of succession. But Saturday evening Mr. Sterling will return from Florida, his train entering Illinois early Saturday morning.

day morning. Thus, at exactly that time, he will replace Senator Carlson as acting governor and retain the post until Gov. Emmerson returns to Springfield Tuesday evening.

100 in Emmerson Party.

Nearly 100 persons were on the Emmerson inaugural train, including Gov. and Mrs. Emmerson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Watson, Chief Justice Clyde E. Stone of the Supreme court, Attorney General Oscar E. Carstrom, William J. Stratton, secretary of state; Walter M. Provine, United States district attorney; State Auditor Oscar Nelson; Adjutant General Carlos D. Black; Ralph Bradford, director of conservation; Francis G. Blair, superintendent of public instruction; A. M. Shultis, director of registration and education; and H. E. Cleaveland, director of public works.

Representing the legislature were Senators Richard J. Barr, James J. Barbour, Epler C. Mills, T. R. Steinert, and G. M. Reynolds and Representatives Shanahan and Elmer J. Schnackenberg.

The party will arrive in Washington Friday evening and will remain until midnight of inauguration day. Senator Carlson, S. Denson and Otto F. Glenn will entertain the party at a luncheon Sunday. From 4 to 6 Sunday the governor will be the guest of the Illinois State society at the Willard hotel, and Sunday night will be entertained by the inaugural committee at the Willard hotel.

Will Witness Ceremonies.

On Monday Gov. and Mrs. Emmerson will witness the swearing in of Senator Charles Curtis as Vice President. Then the entire party will see the inauguration of Mr. Hoover outside the capitol. After this the Emmersons will participate in the parade, the governor going to the White House later to be received with honors of other states.

Just before leaving Springfield, Gov. Emmerson announced that he has received the resignations of three minor state officials held over from the Small administration. They were E. B. Brooks of Newton, superintendent of charities; O. C. Moore of Springfield, fiscal supervisor, both in the department of public welfare; and Jacob Friebe, chief clerk of the tax commission.

BY PARKE BROWN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 28.—(Special.)—As though it wanted to show its critics that it can really get down to business whenever it wants to, the Illinois general assembly put on a spurt today and made a record for this session in the passage of bills.

Adjournment at noon until next Tuesday marked the end of the eighth week of the official life of this legislature and the termination of the fifth of its so-called working weeks. The first three weeks had been taken up with organization and the inauguration of the new state officers.

The official journal will record this as the twenty-second "legislative day" of the session, and observers of progress, or the lack of it, were beginning to laugh at the biennial forecasts that the session will wind up its affairs by May 15—or at least by May 30.

Whistle for Speed.

Then, on the heels of a day devoted much more to words than to actions, somebody must have looked at the calendars of bills pending and whistled for speed. Some of the legislators were getting a bit tired of journeying to Springfield for about one full day's work a week.

Everybody knew it was get-away day. The Emmerson special was off for the Hoover inauguration, and although there was only a quiet from each house in the delegation, it was conceded its departure was as good or better than the average reason for shutting up shop.

Neither chamber was in actual session more than ninety minutes, but in that time each passed a number of bills and advanced many others. The house of representatives, being three times as large as the senate, moves much more slowly. But it got away with three final roll calls.

Nine Bills Through Senate.

And on the other side, where there still is a "senate combine" that looks almost automatically for signals from Richard J. Barr of Joliet, despite his having been squeezed gently out of the temporary presidency, there were nine bills put through the final stage—seven of them senate measures that now go to the house, and two of them house bills, one of which goes back to its source for concurrence in amendments.

This is the much altered measure to permit the Cook county board of review to go ahead with its work without waiting for the board of assessors to complete its task. The house is expected to accede to the senate changes next week.

Two other senate bills found necessary to cure the situation created by the Cook county tax muddle—those that protect the downstate—were in the upper chamber's grist also, but they still require house action.

Senate Pretty Much Agreed.

The other bills passed, for the most part, were not of general importance. But there was comment that, with one exception, there was not a negative vote cast in the senate on any of the nine measures.

In the house the most interesting bill approved was the Fahy measure to exempt cities of less than 5,000 population from the primary law and permit nominations by petition of caucus. Another authorized the state to lease some of its land in Jacksonville for county fairs.

Rep. Michael L. Igoe introduced the most important of the new bills of the day. This was an appropriation of $4,000,000 for the completion of the Illinois waterway—this being estimated as the amount necessary since the discovery that the $20,000,000 bond issue for this purpose will fall short of the mark.

May Question Move.

"There may be a question as to our constitutional power to do this," he said after adjournment, "but the only way to settle that question is to go ahead and try it."

At a train-time session of the senate judiciary committee, Senator Roy C. Woods raised the subject of his bill to repeal the Small Immunity law, the 1927 amendment exempting the governor and other constitutional officers, including legislators, from quo warranto proceedings.

Senator James J. Barbour said that such a repeal would permit "some highbrow Democrats in Cook county to attack Gov. L. L. Emmerson's election. Senator Barr insisted the 1927 act was a good one. But Woods insisted he will press his repeal later.

Italian Court Sentences 154 in Murder Gang

PALERMO, Italy, Feb. 28.—(P)—Sentences of from one to five years' imprisonment were passed on 154 members of the "Rocella gang," a kind of Mafia, by the local tribunal today. Sixteen were acquitted, but four died in jail awaiting trial.

GRAND JURY TOLD OF $500,000 SLOT MACHINE PROFIT

Prosecutors Hunt Those In on Split.

Evidence of a $500,000 a year slot machine syndicate was placed before the grand jury yesterday by Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers. He announced, however, that he did not expect the grand jury to take any action at this time, but that he was merely putting a witness under oath so that in the future investigation he cannot change his testimony about certain facts.

Alex Levine, owner of the 314 West Novelties company, 4191 South Halsted street, which was raided by detectives on Tuesday night, was the man taken before the grand jury. He is reported to have admitted that the machines under his jurisdiction netted a profit of $10,000 a week to his concern.

Profit Split Several Ways.

Levine, however, did not keep all this profit, it was reported, but split it in several ways. The prosecutors are now checking up on the split to determine in what manner and under what promises it was paid out. The machines operated under Levine's direction were confined to Chicago and Cook county. They were only recently taken out of the places in which they were operating, although a few penny machines were still out on lease when the prosecutor and his detectives seized the 49 machines and a tub full of records last Tuesday night.

Levine told the facts of considerable importance to our investigation of the slot machine racket," was the only comment Prosecutor Ayers would make on the situation.

Seek Release on Writ.

The persistent report in the Criminal court building is that Prosecutor Ayers is attempting to hook up Levine's operations with those of the so-called syndicate said to have been under the control of two former politicians and a former saloonkeeper, now a wealthy resident of an exclusive south side section.

Possible city hall connections of Levine were seen in the filing of a writ of habeas corpus for his release yesterday afternoon in Judge Thomas J. Lynch's Criminal court. The writ, unknown to Levine, he admitted in court, was filed by Attorney Eugene McCaffrey at the request of Joseph Doyle, an employee of the license department.

Levine had already been booked on a charge of having slot machines in his possession and released on bond when the writ was filed. He also had already told his story to the grand jury not under an immunity waiver, which indicates that he has talked considerably to the prosecutor and is a willing state's witness.

Judge Starts Quits.

Judge Lynch, when told by Assistant State's Attorney G. J. Chott, the habeas corpus expert of the prosecutor's office, that Levine did not authorize the writ, demanded an explanation of Attorney McCaffrey.

"I was employed by a Joseph Doyle to file the writ," said the attorney. "Am I on trial here? I have a right to file a writ when I am employed to do so."

"It just shows to what great lengths they will go," replied Prosecutor Chott. "Anything will be done to interfere with the due process of law."

Further questioning by the judge brought out the city hall employment of Doyle, who signed the application for the writ.

EXPERT VISIONS 1,500 AIRPLANES ARRIVING DAILY

Landis Asks County to Provide Landing Fields.

mail was a new venture. When the mail was taken over by the private operators on Dec. 7, 1927, the planes changed their terminal to the present municipal field. The runways, lightning, hangars and shops are still in place.

Asked to Close Street.

In order to expand the present size of the Maywood field, the commissioners are asked to close that section of 1st avenue, Maywood, which runs between the air field and a plot of forest preserve property to the south and to allocate the entire area of the "Cook County airport."

It is also recommended that a boulevard be constructed on the west bank of the Des Plaines river to take the place of the condemned road and that the Checkerboard flying field, which adjoins the Veterans' bureau property, be taken over by the county.

Thus an area of more than 500 acres could be provided for airport purposes. It is pointed out that such a transaction would likely necessitate authority from the state legislature.

The plan, it is said, has the support of the Chicago Aero commission.

Will Benefit Citizens.

"I am convinced that the program recommended will prove a greater benefit to more citizens than to the present forest preserve facilities involved," Maj. Landis states.

Study of the traffic on 1st avenue, Maywood, between 12th and 22d streets convinces me that few if any citizens will be inconvenienced by the closing of the road. I believe the proposed new boulevard will prove of greater benefit."

When the mail operators moved from Maywood to the present city airport there was some complaint that the airplanes flying in and out of the Maywood field annoyed the patients in the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital, situated on the western boundary of the field. Dr. Hugh Scott, medical director of the hospital, stated yesterday that the complaints were groundless.

"While I was not at the Hines hospital when the Maywood field was operated, I have talked with old patients and old employees here and have been unable to discover any basis for the complaints. I shall not stand in the way of developing the field as an airport."

CONTRACT PLAN FOR UP-KEEP OF SCHOOLS VETOED

The board of education in executive session yesterday rejected the suggestion of efficiency engineers that the work of maintaining and operating public school buildings be returned to a contract labor basis. H. Wallace Caldwell, president, announced last night. The recommendation was submitted in the report on a recently completed survey of the school system, which estimated that a saving of approximately $2,000,000 could be effected by abolition of the present civil service system.

John W. Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, Joseph Spain, president of the employers' union, and other labor officials who attended the board meeting in an advisory capacity, told the trustees that the civil service system was "not bad, if it could be made to work."

"At present," Mr. Caldwell said, "most employees under the bureau of labor are sixty day appointees, subject to constant change and replacement. We are preparing now to hold examinations for these positions, after which they will be filled by permanent employees drawn from the civil service list."

At a special board meeting this afternoon the trustees will consider a second plan designed to lessen waste in the maintenance system. This plan was formulated by the mayor's advisory committee.

AVIATION NOTES

The Stout Air Service and the Michigan Central railroad yesterday announced a new arrangement for air-rail service to New York. One seat on the Stout passenger plane to Detroit will be reserved each day by the railroad up until the departure of the plane. Passengers leaving Chicago at 3 p. m. will reach Detroit at 6:30, in time to catch the Michigan Central "Detroit," which arrives in New York at 8:30 the following morning.

Organization of the Sierra Pacific Air Transit company, for the purpose of providing airplane passenger and mail service between Del Monte, Watsonville, San José, and San Francisco; San Francisco, Sacramento, and Reno; and Sacramento, Stockton, Modesto, Merced, Fresno, and Visalia, was announced yesterday.

The first four of a series of 21 "Tusky" training airplanes will be delivered this week to the United Aviation corporation for use in a number of projected air training schools in Chicago and at various points on the Interstate line to Atlanta, Ga.

Hyde Park High school yesterday announced the formation of a student air corps consisting of eight cadets, who will study flight theory, airplane construction and other phases of flying. Five other Chicago high schools, Austin, Morgan Park, Fenger, Harrison, and Lindblom, have similar organizations.

President Coolidge yesterday issued an executive order prohibiting all aircraft, except such as shall have the specific permission of the secretary of commerce, from flying over the District of Columbia between March 2 and March 6, the inaugural period. The order was issued as a safety precaution.

A mechanical part needed for the radio equipment of the yacht "Illyria," bearing the Crane-Paine expedition in the Fiji islands, was flown out of Chicago last night in a Boeing westbound mail ship. The part will be carried by plane to Pasco, Wash., and by train to Victoria, B. C., where it will be placed aboard a ship stopping at the Fiji.

An air service linking Belgium and France with the Congo and Madagascar by way of the Sahara is being organized and expects to begin operation in 1930, according to dispatches from Brussels.

Lieutenant Commander Paul E. Gillespie, for the last three years commanding officer at the naval reserve station at Great Lakes, has resigned from the service to become associated with the Universal Aviation corporation as director of its aviation schools. It was announced yesterday.

Mayor L. C. Hodgson and members of the St. Paul city council will fly to Chicago today, arriving at noon, according to word received last night by W. W. Wright, director of parks, playgrounds and beaches. Mr. Wright, and other Chicago officials will meet the delegation.

Night planes of the Chicago-Dallas air mail route temporarily will cease stopping at Kansas City because of unsatisfactory landing conditions at the municipal airport, which is muddy and slippery from recent rains. The Kansas City mail will be hauled by truck from St. Joseph, Mo.

Breaking Tow Rope Ends Glider-Airplane Flight

Metropolitan Airport, Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The glider airplane flight of Dale Drake of Redley, Cal., and Lloyd O'Donnell of Long Beach, Cal., from Redley to Long Beach, came to an end here shortly after 2:30 o'clock this afternoon when the rope by which O'Donnell's plane towed the glider snapped. Both ships landed safely, airport officials said.

DENEEN, GLENN STILL APART ON PATRONAGE HERE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—Senators Charles E. Deneen and Otis F. Glenn (Rep., Ill.) have failed to settle their patronage differences, and present prospects are that action on pending Illinois appointments will be deferred until after the new administration takes office.

President Coolidge has been ready to send nominations to the senate to fill the Cliffe vacancy on the federal bench in the northern district of Illinois and for the internal revenue collectorship in Chicago.

The President has been awaiting recommendations from the two senators. They have held daily conferences on the subject for the last week, but have been unable to agree.

Senator Deneen desires to name Judge Daniel Trude for the Cliffe vacancy and Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge for collector of internal revenue. Senator Glenn favors Charles Woodward of Ottawa for the judicial vacancy and opposes the ousting of Mrs. Mabel Reinecke from the internal revenue collectorship.

AUTO TOLL CUT 26% THIS YEAR, BUNDESEN SAYS

Safety Drives Effective,
He Declares.

Cook county's auto toll for 1929 has been reduced by 26 per cent over the corresponding period of last year, Coroner Herman N. Bundesen announced yesterday after a study of a report on inequities for the period. Only 316 deaths have resulted as against 389 in 1928.

The statistics compiled by the coroner's office are on the number of deaths which have been closed in the two months, and do not agree with the number of actual deaths, which stand at 101.

Monthly statistics prepared by the coroner are as follows:

	1928	1929
January	22	22
February	97	97
Totals	119	119

"Despite the added hazard of icy roads and severe weather the toll has dropped measurably," Coroner Bundesen said. "I attribute this to the widespread campaigns for safety."

Lauds School Patrols.

Commissioner of Police Russell declared yesterday that motorists who disobey the orders of members of the schoolboy patrol will be prosecuted in court the same as if they had violated the orders of policemen. License numbers of offending motorists will be turned in to the police department by the patrol.

"The schoolboy patrol is a material aid to the police department," Commissioner Russell explained. "I shall see to it that drivers obey these boys or face the consequences in court."

Two deaths were reported yesterday in Cook county. The victims:

John Lehman, 45 years old, 1540 South Kenmore street. Died in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries received on Jan. 18.

Edwin Friberg, 80 years old, 1242 Cornell avenue. Died in the Illinois Masonic hospital after being struck by a car in the day by an auto driven by George Feich, 3554 North Whipple street, at Herndon and Addison streets.

Scores Shaken in Crash.

Scores of passengers were shaken up when a southbound Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific train crashed into a ten-ton excavator stalled on the tracks at the Warren crossing in Belvidere, two miles west of Waukegan, yesterday morning.

Ten men were injured when their truck was struck by a Wabash passenger train on a grade crossing near 11th street and Torrence avenue. The men, Benjamin Lasse, 33 years old, 231 East 23d street, and Frank T. Laski, 31 years old, 1120 Buffalo avenue, were taken to the South Chicago hospital.

KILLS ATTORNEY; MOB VIOLENCE IS THREATENED

Ottumwa, Ia., Feb. 28.—(P)—To avoid danger of mob violence at the hands of Centerville residents, George Damyanich, accused of slaying D. Fulton Rice, attorney there, was removed late today to the Wapello county jail here. He was reported to have signed a confession here.

Slays Over Law Suit.

Centerville, Ia., Feb. 28.—(P)—George Damyanich, a minor, shot and killed D. Fulton Rice, 46, his attorney, today because "he didn't handle my case right."

That was the only explanation the 44-year-old Croatian would give for the shooting. Ten years ago Rice ran for congress on the Democratic ticket. Damyanich shot Rice as he came from the courthouse this morning. He waited for the attorney outside the building, and as he started down the steps Damyanich opened fire. Friends of Rice threatened action against the slayer.

3 KILLED, 31 HURT IN COLLISION.

Largo, Cal., Feb. 28.—(U.P.)—Two trains were killed and 31 passengers were injured slightly when an express train of the Northwestern Pacific railroad en route from San Francisco to Eureka collided with a freight train near here today.

60 Reds Seized in Hungary; Nip Anti-Government Plot

[Hungarian Press News Service] BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 28.—What the police believe was a widespread communist plot to overthrow the government was nipped today when several squads of police swooped down on various red headquarters and arrested sixty communists. Most of the sixty arrested were Russians or Germans, all working under false names. The police seized numerous documents but refused to divulge their contents. More arrests are continuing tonight. The police have ordered a roundup of every known communist leader in Budapest.

NULLIFICATION.

The senate obstructionists have succeeded again in their Fabian warfare against enforcement of that section of the constitution which requires congressional reapportionment following each decennial census. The Fenn bill, directing redistricting according to the 1920 population figures and providing for automatic reapportionment should congress fail to order it in the future, passed the house. In the senate Pat Harrison marshaled the nullificationists and compelled the sponsors of reapportionment to bargain with him. A so-called gentleman's agreement removes the redistricting measure from this session's calendar and puts it in the agenda of an extra session, when and if called. At that time the bill must go through the house again as well as through the senate.

It will be recalled that during the debate on the Jones bill it was promoted as a moral action to compel obedience to the fundamental law of the land which prohibits the drinking of liquor. Foremost among the solemn constitutionalists at that time was Senator Borah. For one to whom the constitution is such a sacred memorandum the silence of Mr. Borah on the matter of reapportionment is amazing. A measure to maintain representative government as the nation grew and its population shifted occurred to the authors as so important that they included it in the body of the constitution. It was not until some years later that the Anti-Saloon league engineered the eighteenth amendment. Mr. Borah, being such a firm constitutionalist, might expand his field of action should he read that interesting document as it stood before the league's rider was attached.

There is little comfort in the deal which Senator Harrison and his nullificationists arranged. The members of the house at this session were the fair-haired boys. They voted for the constitution, perhaps with the understanding that the senate would protect them against it. At the special session it may be the senate's turn to wear the lily while the house spins the double zero.

"I GOTTA DRAG" STARS.

A bill has been introduced in the Illinois legislature to restrict the use of so-called courtesy stars on automobiles. The law should be made more stringent and forbid their use altogether, except perhaps by police officers in the performance of their duties.

The "I Gotta Drag" stars, as they have been called, are intended for only one purpose—to relieve the citizens who have been given them of the necessity of obeying traffic regulations and perhaps other laws as well. The stars are to serve as a warning to policemen not to arrest the possessor, for the star is the symbol of political influence. From the governor down, no one is entitled to such immunity in Illinois.

THE ANN ARBOR MYSTERY REMAINS.

A letter from Mr. E. J. Ottaway, president of the University of Michigan Alumni association, was published recently in the Voice of the People. Mr. Ottaway commented on an editorial we had printed entitled "The Ann Arbor Mystery." We wanted to know what was behind the resignation of President Little. Mr. Ottaway in his letter quoted President Little to show that the alumni, at least, were in no way responsible for his departure.

That is good as far as it goes, but it does not answer the question why President Little left Ann Arbor. To the public which supports the University of Michigan and to citizens of other states which maintain universities the matter is of more than casual interest. It is important to know what influences dominate the policies of state universities and how they do it.

TREES FOR ILLINOIS.

This treeless land of gutted slopes and mud fouled streams, waste land and brambles, of stumps where the forests were, and the charred and broken mountain sides where fires trampled down the living green of nature defeated and the gray ghosts of trees standing in stark remnants over the hills, is man's landscape gardening. It is the rasp of his indifferent hand.

In twenty years the virgin timber of America will be gone, says those who know, and the cut and slash and careless fires move on over the country like a notched and broken razor blade. Waste lands remain, and the regrowth of forests makes little headway. The forest crop spans fifty years; few care to plant for so late reaping.

In Illinois, says Forester C. T. Telford, 5,000,000 acres wait for trees. It is land unsuited to ordinary crops, and marginal lands that hold down the farmer's prices and bear him on toward enduring poverty would add millions of acres more. This state, which pays some thirty million dollars in freight charges on lumber from the virgin west and south, could raise most of its own timber.

With timber shortage near, a tree crop in Illinois would pay its dividend. Land planted to trees would yield $7 an acre over a fifty year period. It will return about thirty times the money spent for planting and for taxes. The waste lands of this state need not be wasted.

The timber shortage comes and no hidden resources of wood, no untapped wealth, no shales, no thoughtless optimism will undo it. Miles in Illinois alone use 180,000 carloads of timber every year. The railroads use more than 13,000 carloads of timber every year in Illinois. Steel, paper, board, bagasse, saw grass, cornstalks, fabricated wood will take the place of lumber here and there. But wood always will be needed. It is needed both as growing trees and as cut lumber. The soils, the water, the health and happiness and prosperity of these times are built on trees more than Americans have realized.

SPENDING CHICAGO FARES.

While the Erie railroad appropriates $3,000,000 for New York City terminal improvements, Chicago hears nothing as to its plans here at the western terminal. Chicago has learned to expect neglect from the New York Central, on whose board we have but one member, and from the Pennsylvania, wherein we have no voice, but from the Erie, four of whose directors are Chicagoans, we are disappointed in not receiving an equity in the improvements. Perhaps the middle western Erie directors are following the course of the middle western legislators. It would be better for Chicago if they applied Hiram Johnson measures.

The Erie has one-fifth control of the Western Indiana Railway company, which owns the Dearborn station. The voice of Mr. Lee of the Western Indiana is partly the voice of the Erie, and Mr. Lee does not give encouragement that a south side terminal adjustment is near. Chicago is spending millions straightening the Chicago river for the redemption of the near south side. More millions will be spent in extending streets through the district. The work is going ahead with the understanding that the railroads will arrange their properties and build a modern union station. The failure of the railroads to come to an agreement is less tolerable when they appropriate for the eastern seaboard.

The New York Central is a greater obstructionist than the Erie, because its passenger interests are larger. If the New York Central would take the initiative in the negotiations there is little doubt that an adjustment would be hastened, but the New York Central continues to take its revenue from Chicago and spend it in New York on electrification and terminal improvements. That the income which Chicago produces for the eastern roads entitles us to a share in their betterment programs is illustrated in the annual statements of the Michigan Central and the Big Four lines. The Michigan Central, of whose stock the New York Central holds 99 per cent, is valuable because of its Chicago terminal. In 1928 the net income of the Michigan Central was $13,389,419, as contrasted with $16,866,557 in 1927. It earned $103.48 a share. The Big Four is also a New York Central company. It too, increased earnings during 1928, and it too, looks to Chicago for its revenue. On the other hand, the gross revenue of the New York Central was less in 1928 than in 1927. It is the Chicago terminal which supports the system. It is Chicago revenue which compensates for the decrease in income from the east. Yet money from the productive source is donated to the convenience of the east—and the western terminals are neglected.

Editorial of the Day

SOUTHERN LEADERSHIP.

[Columbus (Ga.) Enquirer-Sun.]
Ivy Lee, formerly of Atlanta and now a leading public relations counsel in New York, made an address at the chapter dinner of Emory university. The keynote speech of Mr. Lee's address was a call for southern leadership in social and governmental problems of the nation. It is unfortunate that Mr. Lee should have opened his talk with the same old stuff that nearly every speaker from the north and every kleagle or ward indulges in—the futile patter about the great Nordic blood and its millions of cursed American negroes.

The obvious answer to Mr. Lee on this particular point is: "What of it?" By way of an answer to our own question, we suggest to Mr. Lee that he make a study of the pure-blooded Nordics of today. He may discover why there has been a decadence in this section of the country which one time produced men like Stephens, Toombs, Grady, and Hill of Georgia; Morris, Pettus, and Underwood of Alabama; Harris and Carmack of Tennessee; Page and Aycock of North Carolina, and Williams of Mississippi. If the same undied Nordic blood is here, has it gone to seed? Or is it possible that Mr. Lee failed to discuss, because he neglected to investigate it, the stage of civilization which marks the present status of the south—the era of bunk symbolized by a bulky, klan controlled, flag waving senator from Alabama and a wassel minded former congressman minister who won his office because his physical infirmities aroused the sympathy and weakened the judgment of a large group of Georgians.

It is most unfortunate that before uttering his call for leadership Mr. Lee did not acquaint himself with the facts in the case. For thirty years the south has had leaders—Tom Watson, or a Vardaman, or an Upshaw, or a Heflin. Watson and Vardaman were able, vigorous, destructive, and unsound-followers. While Upshaw is an unconscionable egoist and honorarium grabber, Tom Heflin is a bitter, loose tongued megalomaniac. It is this type of leadership in the south which has for the last thirty years influenced the average man where no one else could hold his interest or his loyalty.

Nor did Mr. Lee refer to our present leadership—a new phase in the south's loyalty. The pulpit now controls the politician and is hoping and working for the overthrow of the editor. Bishop Cannon and his group of adherents have abandoned the methods of Christ and entered the political field. The pulpits give the south more closely than it does any other section, and funds millions here ready to accept its dictum in politics as unquestionably as they do its interpretation of a gospel. As a result, the majority of southerners are not interested in national affairs, with the exception of prohibition, and are not concerned with international problems.

Yet, it may be Mr. Lee referred to the need of a leadership similar to the one secured by such men as Walter Hines Page and Oscar W. Underwood, both of whom were rejected by their own people and died self-exhausted. Underwood having had it driven in on him that integrity, truth, courage, and statesmanship were of little value in the eyes of his people, made way for Heflin, idol of bigots and masked gangsters. And while Glaves of Virginia has not yet decided to quit the political struggle, he is discovering that his following has turned to Bishop Cannon, the Cardinal Richelieu of the new political dispensation.

If the picture of a leadership south seems somewhat gloomy, there is no reason for despair. Gradually church members will realize that the presence of the pulpits in politics is destroying the power and usefulness of the church in its own particular field, the sphere of religion. And the present phase of pulpits in politics will pass. The entire south will be slow to recover from its surrender to Bishop Cannon and his group; but during this period of readjustment the press and the universities of the south will pave the way for new leaders, men untrammelled and unafraid.

CRY FOR THE MOON.

If I could only ever find
A man who would be more inclined
To listen than to talk himself,
I should not muse upon the shelf!

If I could only ever see
A man who had no theory
About what women ought to wear,
Who never sought to grow my hair,
I should be very—need I shout it?
I should be very pleased about it!

If I could only ever know
A man whom talk of golf made low,
A man who was not sure his love
Making would startle gods above,
A man who really didn't think
He drove most girls he knew to drink,
I should be ready—I have said it—
To give him lots and lots of credit!

Walter Winchell, whose spy system it has been truly said would have made the Wilhelmstrasse verdant with envy, says that Al Scarface Capone may have retired, but his telephone bill at Miami last week end, for Chicago and New York calls, was four and a half grand. Walter's cynical nature will get the better of him yet. We are that trustful we feel sure Mr. Capone's $4,500 long distance telephone bill last week end was incurred calling all his Chicago enemies up and saying, "Bet you don't know who this is?"

AS ONE IN ARMOR CLAD.
(We feel obliged to change the name of our great detective story again today—but it's the same story and we hope to continue it under the new title. The reason for the change will appear as we go along.)
Police Constable Higgins stopped to chat with a friend, a Mr. Applegate, in front of Durrant's hotel, in George street. He glanced across at a window in the famous Wallace Collection, where near the wall stood an armored figure carrying in its hands, a large arquebus. "Who's the old bloke?" asked Constable Higgins, carelessly. He knew his friend could tell, because Mr. Applegate was one of the attendants in the museum.

"Oh, that," said Mr. Applegate, "that's the finest piece of armor left in London. 'That's the finest piece of armor left in London'—that's the name of the armor. It's the armor of Sir Christopher Hatton, Lord Chancellor of England and a great favorite of Queen Elizabeth. 'Never heard of him,' said Police Constable Higgins. 'You wouldn't,' said Mr. Applegate, 'but, as I said, it was such a good friend of Queen Elizabeth that there was a great deal of talk of being a bachelor. Why, I understand that that very suit of armor was given to Sir Christopher by the queen herself.' 'So he let her buy his clothes?' observed Constable Higgins. 'A rotter I call him.' 'Be that as it may,' continued Mr. Applegate, 'there stands right this minute in the Wallace Collection and is viewed each and every day by large and deeply interested crowds.' 'The which is all very interesting,' commented Constable Higgins, 'but I must continue my rounds.' Constable Higgins strolled down Spanish place and into Manchester square. As he passed the house where Sir Algernon Somerset was still sitting in the window, he knocked at the door. Hawkins, the butler, soon appeared. 'You were telling me yesterday,' said Constable Higgins, 'about various people who called to see Sir Algernon on the day on which you suspect he passed away as the result of a gunshot wound in the forehead.' 'Yes,' said the butler. 'Well, on the evening of that day Sir Joseph had a very strange visitor. He must have been quite a heavy man, for I heard him walking up and down in my master's front room, and he fairly shook the house at every step. And he seemed to clink and rattle like as he moved about. Then there were loud, fierce words, and a sound much like a pistol shot, and the visitor went away walking in the direction of the Wallace museum. I ran to the door and glanced after him. It was too dark to see much, but the visitor seemed to be dressed all in steel, in armor such as worn by the knights of old. It is all passing strange!"

Constable Higgins took out his little notebook and hurriedly jotted down a few items. Then he turned suddenly on the butler. "Answer me, Hawkins, very carefully," he said, sternly; "that pistol shot you heard—was it made by a pistol—or was it made by, let us suppose—an arquebus?" (Sir Christopher Hatton was one of the most distinguished men during the reign of Queen Elizabeth. Some of you, no doubt, have, while in London, strolled in Hatton Garden. This garden was given to Sir Christopher by the queen. It belonged to the Bishop of Ely, but Queen Elizabeth took it away from him and gave it to Sir Christopher. Elizabeth liked Sir Christopher very much and often called him her pet monkey, which means, I am sure, and was a word of great endearment in those days.)

ANYHOW, one thing is certain about Mr. Hoover. He is going to live in the White House. Not that he has admitted as much, but it is shrewdly suspected that such will be the case.

"OH," SAID HENRY SELINGER, "you're thinking of singing Bathhouse John Coughlin's 'Dear Midnight of Love' on the Air Line next Sunday night? Well, then, you will go on at 10:15 p. m. instead of 9:15, as usual, sometimes. That will put you nearer midnight and make the song more a prop, as it were." Isn't Henry the thoughtful little devil?

THE W. C. T. U. issued a report yesterday saying that rum deaths had jumped to forty in every million of population, while in 1920 there was but one death to every million. The ladies say this is due to the public refusal to accept the benefits of the prohibition law. Well, it isn't due to their refusal to accept a drink anyhow.

CINCINNATI.—The following news from rebel papers of the 17th to the 22d inst. is just received: The Selma Reporter says Sherman was on the march 30 miles east of Havana, on the 17th. Polk has retreated across the river at Demopolis, to decoy Sherman across, when he would offer battle. The Atlanta Appeal says that Sherman's purposes are still a mystery as to whether he will move against Mobile or turn eastward. The utmost consternation prevails and citizens are invoked to arms to repel the invaders.

CHICAGO.—The 43d Illinois veteran regiment has a company of Swedes from the vicinity of Galesburg, who, having retrained, have come home on a furlough. They were warmly received on their arrival at Galesburg, and the company entered the service 100 strong and returned with only 39. They are brave men.

WASHINGTON.—In a letter written immediately after the recent disaster in Florida, Maj. John Hay sets down our loss in killed, wounded and missing at 800. He says the loss is considerably greater than was at first supposed. He adds that Gen. Seymour brought off his troops in splendid style.

WASHINGTON.—Col. Straight, 51st Indiana; Maj. McDonald, 101st Ohio; Capt. Pearce, 51st Indiana; and Lieut. Sterling, 51st Ohio, who tunneled themselves out of Libby prison, arrived here.

THEY HAVE TO BE HARDY.
THE SCOTCH people are a very sturdy race. They are healthy and they live a long span. If a man is desirous of begetting a family with a strong tendency to longevity there is no better way than to ask a Scotch lassie to be the mother of his children.

In their land the people get very little sunlight during the winter months. The climate is not good and the soil is poor. There are people who attribute the brawniness of the people to the survival of the fittest. Others say it is wholly or in part due to the clothes they wear. That, too, may be a part of that matter of the survival of the fittest. There are those who attribute it, at least in part, to the Scotch diet.

A writer in Modern Hospital gives the following as a typical Scotch menu:
Breakfast—Scotch oatmeal cakes of bread with marmalade; porridge with rich milk; fish, bacon, or eggs; tea.
Dinner—Scotch broth, roast mutton, boiled potatoes, buttered cabbage, gooseberry tart with milk; crackers with cheese; bread; cakes.
Afternoon Tea—Bread and butter sandwiches with jam or marmalade, Scotch oatmeal cakes.
Supper—Fish, bread, scones, oatmeal cake with marmalade, cheese and crackers, cake, tea.

A score correspondents in architecture to the southern brood is found, about as large as a dinner plate, and about three-quarters of an inch thick. It is baked on a griddle on top of the stove. It is cut into pieces similar in shape to a cut of pie. As a rule, the southern butters his heebee and eats it hot. The Scotchman eats his scones cold and uses jam or marmalade as a condiment. The scone is not made with cornmeal.

Oatmeal cakes are made with finely ground oatmeal. The batter is made into a cake something like a batter cake. This is solidified and browned on a griddle on top of the stove, and then transferred to the inside and baked throughout. The Scotch people eat very little uncooked fruit. They have comparatively few vegetables. Cabbage is an exception. They are heavy cabbage eaters. Diabetics are fed largely on cabbage, cabbage soup, and cabbage liquor.

The diet is a heavy one. It is richer in starches and higher in calories than the American diet.

CHICAGO.—A robber charged Mrs. F. A. Lagorio, 933 Wabash avenue, wife of a physician, $25.00 for robbing her. He represented himself as a mechanic from the Commonwealth Edison company, and she had him do three hours work for which she paid him. When she next desired to wear her jewels they were gone—$10,000 worth.

CHICAGO.—Carter H. Harrison has left Paris for home, and when he lands in New York he will find himself an independent candidate to mayor or Chicago, if a program announced by P. J. McKenna is carried out. He notified his workers to get petitions signed for Harrison.

NEW YORK.—Once reported dead when he was shot down in a battle of planes and later found by the Red Cross in a German prison camp, Lieut. Alan Winslow of Oak Park arrived here on the Aquitania, wearing the D. S. C., the medal of the Lafayette escadrille, and the Croix de Guerre with palm, and with only one arm. He was about as communicative as a clam on his war experiences.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

[Punch (Copyright).]

POPCORN AND CONSTIPATION.
W. G. G. writes: I was interested in your reply to the gentleman of 61 years who requested an aid for constipation. The following simple practice has cured me of this troublesome condition of several years.

Every Sunday evening I purchase a 10 cent sack of popcorn and consume this, together with a glass of milk. This has now become a habit with me and I no longer have any trouble with constipation. I am 20 years younger than the gentleman of the inquiry.

FOLKLORE OF SAVAGES.
V. N. writes: Please tell me some foods that are strengthening to the eyes, and also that are weakening.

REPLY.
The fanciful notion that foods strengthen certain organs or weaken them had its roots in the folklore of savages. It never has any standing among informed men.

NOT SO EASILY CURED.
Mrs. M. H. writes: I have gone to a doctor for a long time for the treatment of atrophic rhinitis, or so-called dry catarrh. I have used a sugar-water solution for my own remedy.

REPLY.
Is there anything you can suggest for this trouble and foul breath?
Atrophic rhinitis or catarrh is not easily cured. Physicians often fail to cure it. I wish I knew what to tell you to do. This is one kind of ailment that is not easily cured.

METHOD IN GENERAL USE.
H. W. writes: I have heard of a new method of curing various venereal diseases. Where can I have this done?

REPLY.
This method is now in general use. You can have the operation done by any surgeon of even moderate experience.

YOU MAY KEEP YOUR JOB.
C. W. writes: I am a lad of 18 and I have been working for a paint company for the last 7 months doing hard work. I have been told by friends that the work I am doing will put my back, shoulders and legs out of shape. Is this true?

REPLY.
Working as a stockman in a paint store should not have the effect you speak of.

DISCREDIT OBSERVATOR ROMANO.
Chillicothe, Ill., Feb. 25.—Were you not hasty in publishing your editorial "The Vatican and Rotary"? We shall not dispute your encomium of Rotary, although at times it seems to me not nearly so ideal as you picture it.

The point is, do you actually know from the press dispatches thus far received that Rome has actually banned the organization? The Observator Romano is only a semi-official organ of the Vatican. The argument seems to have been from the very first that priests should be permitted to join. Nothing was said about the layman. Look up your files on this matter and see if I'm not right. And Mr. Sutton in Paris is quoted as saying that the Vatican had been warned to stop the ban on the Rotary.

THE VATICAN STATE.
Highland Park, Ill., Feb. 25.—If I read the Bible correctly, Christ said "My kingdom is not of this world," and now comes Pope Pius XI, and has himself proclaimed king of the Vatican state. He is now a temporal ruler with a kingdom on earth and all the powers of any reigning monarch. At the same time he claims to be the "vicar of Christ."

In what position does this leave the Roman Catholics in the United States? Can a Roman Catholic be a real citizen of this country and still obey the dictates of a foreign monarch? Are not all titles such as bishop, cardinal, etc., contrary to the spirit and letter of the constitution? A NON-CHURCHMAN.

PRIZE FOR THE TRIBUNE BOUTS.
Chicago, Feb. 26.—Being a member of the Forty and Eight soldiers' organization which receives net profits derived from the amateur bouts promoted by THE TRIBUNE each year, I wish to congratulate those who so successfully handled the affair.

Nothing but clean sportsmanship was displayed by the contestants. Each bout was very interesting on both nights I attended, and in the finals, prizes were honestly awarded the winners.

The handling of the bout and the speed shown between bouts showed that proper supervision was being the affair.

In closing, I wish to state that not only the ex-servicemen, but the civilian spectators, too, were very much interested in these bouts, but the young American of today was shown the result of health, clean sportsmanship, and the art of self-defense.

FLOODS IN SOUTH
CAUSE LIFE LOSS;
DAMAGE GROWSIllinois and Ohio Also Are Hard Hit.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Swelled to flood stage by a 48-hour downpour of rain, rivers and tributaries in Georgia, Alabama and the Carolinas swirled out of their banks today, marooned cities and villages, impaired rail and highway traffic, and claimed six lives in one small Georgia community.

The Ocmulgee and Oconee rivers in Georgia, the Coosa, Tombigbee, Black Warrior and Tallapoosa rivers in Alabama, and the Catawba, French Broad and Swannanoa in the Carolinas were the principal streams affected. Wide areas of inundation, washed out bridges and flooded roads and rail lines, were reported in the lowlands of these streams.

Georgia Hard Hit.

Here the torrents of the Ocmulgee spread but a mile wide, surged within four blocks of the main business section of Macon, and threatened to overflow Central city park. City employees worked throughout last night and this morning strengthening levees with sandbags.

Near Lincoln, Ga., the flood waters today gave up the bodies of six persons who were drowned in their automobile that plunged into the surging waters of Cherokee creek, flowing through a washout in the highway fill. The bodies of Fred A. McWhorter, prominent attorney and a state representative elect, and his three small children were taken from the stream this morning.

Towns Is Marooned.

Milledgeville, Ga., was marooned. Augusta, Ga., protected by levees, was cut off from its South Carolina neighbor, North Augusta, and the Southern railway was forced to reroute its trains between Macon and Atlanta as water a foot deep flowed over its tracks.

Flood stage also was approached by swollen streams in the Carolinas. Many streets in Greensboro, N. C., were flooded. Many roads were closed to traffic in South Carolina.

Central Alabama was threatened with the worst flood since 1918. Trains of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad were delayed indefinitely near Ozark, Ala., by washouts.

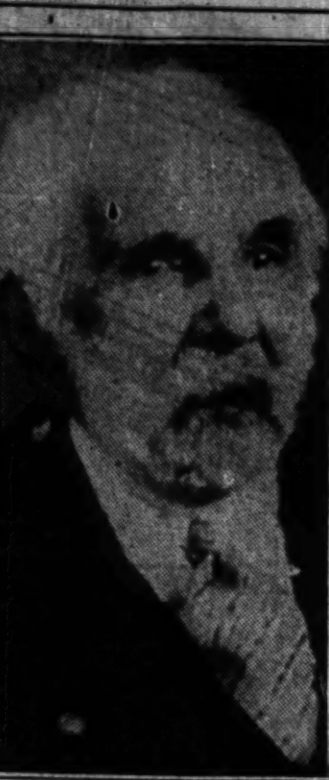

Ohio Rivers on Rampage.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Flood conditions continued to threaten three widely scattered sections of Ohio tonight, over the remainder of the state high waters were receding and damage has passed the $2,000,000 mark.

The worst menace, that of the Ohio river in the vicinity of East Liverpool, was averted today when that stream, after rising to within its flood stage of 21 feet, began to recede.

The Tuscarawas river continued to pound at levees which alone prevented it from flooding a section of Dover. The Scioto was out of its banks in

100 Years Old Today

JOHN KING.

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 28.—John King, 100 years of age tomorrow, will celebrate the event in much the same manner that he spends any other day. A birthday cake with 100 candles has been prepared by his daughter, Mrs. S. P. Beard, with whom he resides at Carlock. He formerly lived in Chicago.

Mr. King served throughout the civil war without a wound. While a gunner with Company C, first Ohio regiment, light artillery, he won a reprimand from his colonel for firing the first shot discharged at the Battle of Shiloh without waiting for orders. The confederate flag that he used for a target disappeared after the shot.

When a young man he ate dinner with Abraham Lincoln when that attorney tried a sheep killing case at Waynesville, Ill. Mr. King's daily routine includes smoking five or six cigars a day. He is able to carry on conversation, although he is unable to walk. His family includes five generations.

Pike county and the Maumee remained a threat at Toledo.

Illinois and Missouri in Floods. St. Louis, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Local floods continued today in portions of Missouri and Illinois with further rises in rivers forecast because of thawing and ice gorges.

The weather bureau report said the Illinois river would rise until the middle of next week and would reach crests of 8 to 10 feet above flood stages at Peru, Henry, Peoria, Havana, Beardstown and Pearl. The stream already is flooding locally in those sections.

Plunge Off Bridge Kills 2.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Sherill Maynard, 26, and Charles Kinsler, 44, both of Fort Gay, W. Va., across the Big Sandy river from here, were drowned when their automobile plunged off a bridge and fell fifteen feet into Twelve Falls creek near Dickson, W. Va.

TRANSIT BILLS TO BE READY IN NEXT 2 WEEKS

Simpson Tells Aldermen Committee's Plans.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The proposed bills to enable Chicago to solve its transportation problem were promised "in 10 days or two weeks at the latest" yesterday by James Simpson, chairman of the citizens' committee appointed to aid in the solution. This announcement was made to the council committee on local transportation.

A little later Allan T. Gilbert, secretary of the committee, announced that Federal Judge Wilkerson has employed Walter L. Fisher to give his opinion upon the "constitutionality and adequacy" of the bills. The reorganization of the Chicago Railway company, west and north side surface lines, is pending in Judge Wilkerson's court and he is, therefore, interested in getting a settlement as soon as practicable.

With these two announcements it seems probable that the bills, so far as the citizens' committee is concerned, will be ready for the state legislature on March 15. This was the principal information sought by the council local transportation committee from Mr. Simpson.

"Our work has reached a point where it seemed desirable to tell you and the public what had been accomplished," said Mr. Simpson in reply to inquiries from Ald. Joseph B. McDonough (18th) regarding the citizens' committee report. "The task has taken longer than you or we hoped when we started. We believe that if the attorneys for the city and the companies will continue to work as diligently as they have worked, we will be able to submit the bills in ten days, two weeks at the latest. We have proceeded on the theory that the mayor and city council should have the broadest powers to deal with the transit question as sound judgment dictates."

Ald. Oscar P. Nelson (46th) commended the plan of the citizens for a metropolitan district. He concluded: "If that can be worked out, and your lawyers say it is constitutional, you will have accomplished a wonderful result."

Comments Commission Plan. Ald. James B. Bowler (25th) spoke favorably of the plan for a local commission to regulate the proposed unified transportation system. The plan provides that three commissioners shall be appointed by the mayor and two by the governor.

Ald. Wiley W. Mills (37th) wanted to know what assurances can be given of better service by a unified operation. He asserted that he had to stand riding down town yesterday morning.

"Chicago will have control of the local commission," replied Ald. Bowler, "by having three members of it. They will be appointed by the mayor and approved by the city council. That will be effective home rule."

"I want to know what we will get by this legislation," persisted Mills. "You want legal power to deal with the question as you think best for the public, don't you?" put in Ald. McDonough. "Isn't that what we all want?"

"Mills is just fighting shadows, before he has seen the bills," interjected Nelson. "He is afraid of something before he has seen it. If the citizens' committee can work out the metropolitan idea they will have done the greatest thing yet. I move a vote of hearty thanks to the citizens."

Chairman McDonough emphasized that the aldermanic committee should continue work on an ordinance franchise as soon as the bills are completed. Mr. Simpson indicated that policy.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN IS PAST CRISIS OF HIS ILLNESS

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Charlie Chaplin, screen comedian, has passed the critical stage of his illness, Chaplin studio officials said today.

"Mr. Chaplin's condition has improved greatly and any adverse development is exceedingly remote," his representatives said. "His temperature at noon today had fallen from a high of 101½ degrees on Tuesday to 97 degrees. He slept peacefully most of the day."

Improvement in the actor's condition, following his collapse from an attack of pneumonia poisoning last Monday, which was accentuated by a relapse Tuesday and a slight case of intestinal influenza, was noted last night.

Reports that Chaplin had contracted spinal influenza and was battling for his life were denied strenuously from all authoritative sources.

FOUND DEAD IN BED. Charles Chaplin, 36 years old, 1949 Bunting street, was found dead in bed last night by his son, Louis. Heart disease is believed to have caused death.

FAHERTY PLANS GO ON, THOUGH FUNDS ARE LOW

Despite the depletion of the street improvement bond funds, plans for further street widening and paving are being carried forward by Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements. It was learned yesterday. His activities in furthering construction work on paper, members of the council finance committee declare, are for the purpose of retaining his present staff on the pay roll, including the high priced experts, though actual construction, the aldermen say, is unlikely to follow for months.

The latest enterprise concerns the section of Ashland avenue between 31st and 39th streets. An ordinance for the paving of that section, after it has been widened from 42 to 70 feet, was submitted to the city council recently and will come up before the committee on judiciary and special assessments this morning.

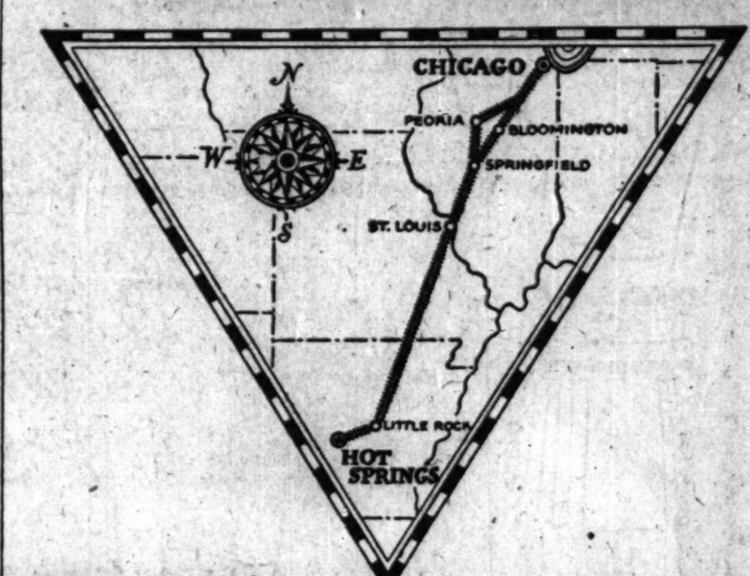

Before the street can be widened.

however, property condemnation judgments must be paid. Money for this is lacking. Additional bond issues have been twice rejected by the voters. In the three Ashland avenue bond funds, which once contained $3,935,000, there remains only $238,000. For 1929 Mr. Faherty has requested the council finance committee to set up $6,203,769 to pay off judgments. Other obligations raise the total amount requested for Ashland avenue improvements to $6,769,424. Judgments obtained by property owners affected by the widening between Irving Park boulevard and Lake street, it was pointed out, must receive first consideration if money is raised.

Masaryk, Czecho-Slovakian President, Seriously Ill

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Feb. 28.—Despite the statements of physicians that President Thomas G. Masaryk is only suffering from a light attack of the grippe, it is reported that his condition is more serious than the doctors admit. The Czech leader is 79 years old.

U. S. DEFENSE FUND ASSURED 690 MILLIONS

Coolidge Signs Army Appropriations Bill.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—Developments today assured a total of 690 million dollars for national defense expenditures in the 1930 fiscal year beginning June 30. Of this amount the navy will expend $61 million and the army $29 million.

President Coolidge today signed the army appropriations bill and is expected to sign the navy supply bill tomorrow. The army bill, carrying $29 million for the purely military needs of the war department and $16 million for its nonmilitary activities, reached the White House today and was signed without being submitted to the interested departments for their approval. The navy bill passed its last legislative hurdle this afternoon, when the house agreed to a conference report already approved by the senate.

River Fund Assured. The army appropriation bill now enacted into law supplies $50,000,000 for river and harbor work throughout the country, $30,000,000 for flood control work on the Mississippi river, and $2,500,000 of a $10,000,000 authorization made available for expansion work on the Mississippi barge line service. A part of the authorization is to be made available for extending the barge line to the Illinois and Mississippi rivers.

Aside from carrying on the regular routine activities of the war department, the $27 million dollar military fund provides little in the way of appropriations for modernization of the American army. The bill carries $250,000 for the purchase of six of the new, light, modern fighting tanks developed by the ordnance department. A slight increase in the funds allotted annually for ordnance development of new weapons and equipment is also supplied. Part of this fund will be utilized in building a new fifteen-ton tank of a type more powerful for its weight than any developed in any part of the world. The total army appropriation is approximately $10,000,000 more than last year, one third of the increase going to the air corps.

Five New Cruisers This Year. The navy bill carries $47,121,000 for cruiser construction during 1930. During a portion of the fiscal year government and private yards will be at work on a total of eighteen of the 10,000-ton Washington treaty type cruisers. The sum of $12,370,000 is carried to provide funds for beginning

Britain Alone in World Cuts Army, War Secretary Says

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) LONDON, Feb. 28.—Aspirant Great Britain is the only large nation in the world curtailing military expenditure, Secretary of War Sir Laming Worthington Evans outlined the year's army budget in the house of commons this afternoon. He pointed out that for 1929 the government estimate was $181,665,000, compared with $181,250,000 in 1928, while the United States had increased its corresponding expenditure by approximately $40,000,000 for the same period, Italy $50,000,000, and Germany $25,000,000.

Although increasing the army reserve by 15,000 to a total of 124,000, the regular army demand is 130,500 men this year compared to 157,500 last year.

Claims World's Best Tanks. The mechanization program includes the purchase of about twenty-two six-wheeled latest pattern armored cars, forming part of the equipment of one regiment. The mechanization of light artillery includes production of four mechanized light batteries, while, according to the secretary of war, the modern type tank which replaces the work on five new cruisers before June 30 this year and to begin five more before June 30, 1930. One aircraft carrier will also be placed under construction.

Construction work on eighteen cruisers during 1930 was made necessary by the failure of recent congresses to supply funds for carrying cruiser construction at an orderly rate. The United States is now building eight old wartime tank entitled Great Britain to claim the lead of the world in this branch of the service. Theoretical discussion for the practical handling of modernized armored formations projected this year will be the first attempt at crystallized ideas in this direction.

Increase in Recruits. Referring to the territorial army the secretary of war announced that it showed an increase of 6,200 recruits over the preceding year, of which nearly eighty-eight per cent of the officers and men attended camp last year.

The secretary admitted that economic conditions and disarmament discussions resulted in a serious shortage of candidates for commissions in the regular army, which does not permit a further reduction under any conceivable circumstances. There will be no maneuvers in 1929. There will be collective training the same as last year. He said the army is providing an education for approximately 500,000 men, and despite the psychological as well as material difficulties, it maintains its high standard of efficiency unimpaired.

The navy bill will increase the enlisted personnel of the navy by 500, bringing the enlisted strength to 84,500. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur had asked for 85,000 as the minimum needs of the navy.

10,000-ton 8 inch gun cruisers and $24,750,000 is carried for continuing work on these ships in 1930. The navy hopes to complete three of these ships before the end of the year.

Mother in Hospital, Girl, 9, Burns to Death Cooking

Jennie Krupa was only 9 years old but when her mother went to the maternity ward of St. Mary's hospital the other day, the child took her place at home. Between school hours she prepared the meals and took care of 4-year-old Ruth, 8-year-old Martin, and herself in their flat at 925 Montmart street. Jennie was preparing the noon meal yesterday when her sleeve brushed across a gas burner and the child was enveloped in flames. The mother has not been told, but Jennie died of burns last evening in another ward of the hospital.

PERIL RADIO BILL WITH FILIBUSTER IN SENATE TODAY

Commission Fate Hinges on Passage of Measure.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Feb. 28.—(Special.)—Another possible filibuster threatened the senate tonight as radio legislation was given the right of way. The senate adjourned at 7 o'clock, deferring the fight over continuance of the present authority of the radio commission for another year until tomorrow. The bill was made the unfinished business on the recommendation of the steering committee, other measures which preceded it on the program having been acted upon or side-tracked. The leaders seemed confident that the opposition to the radio bill would be overcome and that it would be passed tomorrow. It already has been approved by the house.

Prospects of clearing up other remaining difficulties by Saturday night seemed fairly bright.
In Session Until 2 A. M.
The senate met at 11 a. m., after having remained in session until 2:40 a. m. as a consequence of last night's filibuster against the second deficiency appropriation bill.

The deficiency bill was passed at 1 p. m. today under the agreement reached when last night's filibuster was broken.

The interior department appropriation bill, which also has been involved in a filibuster, again was called up, the senate standing pat on its proposal for compromising the controversy with the house over the condemnation of privately owned lands in the national parks. If the house accepts the compromise tomorrow, as seems likely, this source of controversy will be eliminated.

If the compromise is accepted, Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem., Mont.), who has a summer home in Glacier National park, will have won out. The senate, by a vote of 50 to 23, refused to recede from its compromise proposal exempting from privately owned lands subject to condemnation proceedings those used for homes, hotels, or for religious purposes. The house heretofore has held out for unlimited authority to condemn privately owned lands, the chief purpose being to save the big trees of the Yosemite, threatened with destruction by lumbering interests.

After getting the appropriation bills out of the way temporarily, the senate settled down to the consideration of unobjectionable bills on the calendar. In the course of about three hours the senate passed nearly 200 minor bills, many of them bridge authorizations and relief measures.

The naval appropriation bill conference report was approved today by the house, and the senate later concurred in modifications insisted upon by the lower branch.

Reject Compromise.
Senator A. H. Vandenberg (Rep., Mich.), made a futile effort during the day to revive the reapportionment bill on which he admitted defeat during last night's filibuster. He proposed to Senator Pat Harrison (Dem., Miss.), who led the filibuster against it that as a substitute for the measure providing for automatic reapportionment every ten years by the secretary of commerce, the bill, as passed by the house several years ago dividing up congressional districts on the basis of the 1920 census should be revived and added as an amendment to the house census bill.

Senator Harrison submitted the proposition to the Mississippi congressional delegation which rejected it flatly. Senator Vandenberg consequently abandoned his efforts. Both the reapportionment bill and the bill authorizing the 1930 census are dead for the session.

As matters now stand all appropriation bills have been disposed of by both houses, except for the approval of conference reports. The only conference reports hanging fire are those on the first and second deficiency bills and the interior department bill. If the prohibition controversy involved in the deficiency bills is ironed out satisfactorily in the conference reports to be submitted to the two houses tomorrow and the house accepts the interior department compromise the program respecting the annual supply bills will be complete.

Naval Appropriation Bill.
Besides the radio bill another possible remaining source of controversy is the Navy resolution for the postponement of the national origins immigration quota system.

Senator G. P. Nye (Rep., N. D.) plans to call up this resolution if possible, but all indications are that it will meet defeat and that President-elect Hoover will be faced with the necessity of issuing a proclamation on April 1 to make the new quotas effective on July 1.

Senator C. C. Dill (Dem., Wash.), who filibustered last night against the item in the second deficiency bill for an appropriation of $150,000 for the Nicaraguan canal survey by army engineers, met defeat early today when the senate adopted the committee amendment proposing the item by a vote of 54 to 19.

The Edge resolution authorizing the survey, which was adopted by the senate a few days ago, was approved by the house interlarded commerce committee today and will come up for action in the house tomorrow. Senator Vandenberg succeeded in eliminating from the deficiency bill on a point of order an item for funds for the 1929 census.

The deficiency bill was passed without a record vote.

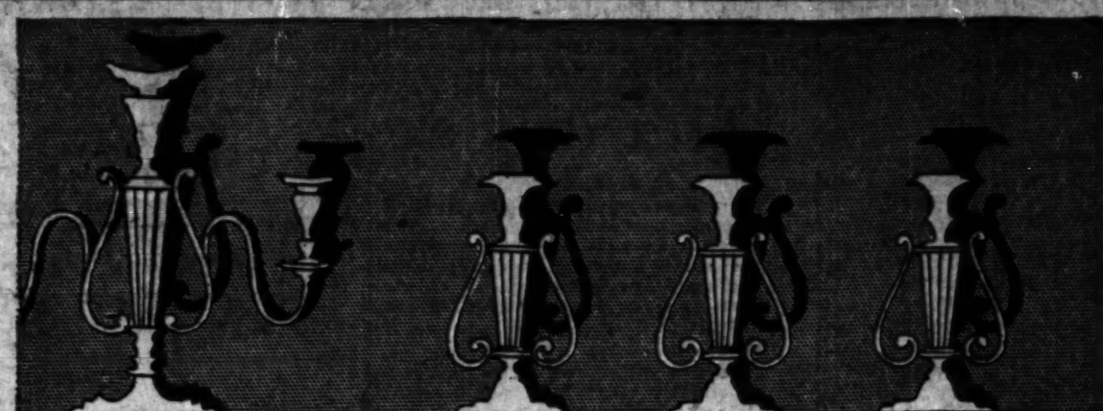

The radio bill was made the unfinished business at the close of the day on the motion of Senator James E. Watson (Rep., Ind.) Senator Royal

S. Copeland (Dem., N. Y.) led a filibuster against the bill at a recent night session and still is against it, but has indicated he would be willing to compromise on an extension of the radio commission's power for nine months. Thus far sponsors of the bill have refused to accept such a compromise.

SANITARY BOARD RALLIES FORCES FOR LEGAL BATTLE

Prepare Evidence for Lake Level Hearing.

The sanitary district yesterday began marshaling its legal and engineering forces for the preparation and presentation of further evidence in the lake level hearings, to be resumed here on March 25 before Special Master in Chancery Charles Evans Hughes.

Sherman M. Woodward, professor in hydraulic engineering at the University of Iowa, was added to the staff of eleven engineering experts who are engaged in the district's sewage disposal system. Assisting the engineers in pleading the district's case before Master Hughes will be a staff of special attorneys headed by George F. Barrett, who has represented the drainage board in the controversy since its inception.

Retain Beck on Staff.
The board of trustees voted yesterday to retain Attorney James M. Beck and Edmund D. Adcock as its legal counsel on the special staff. In addition, the board accepted the offer of the Chicago Association of Commerce of the services of William P. Sidley and Cornelius Linde, two of the association's attorneys, who will serve on the special staff at no expense to the district.

The sale late yesterday afternoon of $510,000 in tax anticipation warrants to the First National bank will enable the board to meet obligations totaling $360,000, due today, for maturing bonds.

The financial relief came too late, however, to permit approval of the pay roll for the last half of February, which fell due yesterday. Trustee Ross A. Woodhull, chairman of the finance committee, announced that the roll would be approved at the conclusion of the adjourned meeting of last week, which is set for this afternoon.

Approve Voucher List.
Also included in the business of the finance committee at yesterday's meeting was the approval of a $25,000 voucher list, the first to be passed by the new board since its organization last December. The vouchers, it was explained by Chairman Woodhull, were for the payment of bills under $500 incidental to the operation of the clerical and engineering department.

Considerable discussion was evoked among the trustees by the revelation that one of the vouchers, for a sum of $487, was issued to the Pontiac Press in payment for printing 5,000 pamphlets explaining the work of the district in disposing of Chicago's sewage. Bids are to be asked on the printing of 15,000 more of the pamphlets, which will cost considerably more than the $500 limit beyond which work must be let on advertised contracts.

REVENUE AGENTS TO TAKE HAND IN CANAL QUIZ

The internal revenue department has been asked by the special prosecuting staff of First Assistant State's Attorney Frank J. Loesch to take a hand in the investigation of the affairs of the sanitary district, it became known yesterday. The revenue agents will be supplied by Assistant State's Attorney Thomas H. Blomster with the sums paid out by the district to various contractors and others who have done business with the district and these will be checked against the income tax returns.

The government agents will be asked particularly to scrutinize the returns of Morton Kallis, head of the printing firm bearing his name, who received $120,000 from the district for printing the annual message of Timothy J. Crowe as president. This document has been called a campaign pamphlet by the prosecutors. The affairs of a so-called Lee-Jack Printing company will be watched with interest by the revenue agents. This company was obviously a blind for the Kallis company, the prosecutors charge. The name was obtained from a boat owned by Kallis several years ago.

Undertaker Seized; Free Women in Gambling Raid

Fred F. Roberts, south side undertaker, was arrested yesterday by Woodlawn police as the owner of an alleged gambling resort at 1413 East 63d street, after he had been named in court by one of eighteen women taken into custody during a raid on the place. The charge against Roberts was made by Mrs. Ada Potts, 6546 Maryland avenue, at the trial of those seized in the raid, before Judge George B. Holmes in the Grand Crossing court. All the women were discharged. Mrs. Potts' sons, Elton and Virgil, were fined $100 and costs each as keepers of the resort.

E. D.'S OIL PROXY CLAIM DOUBLED BY COL. STEWART

Chairman Says He Has Control of 32,000.

Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana, late yesterday took his first personal hand in the poker game of proxies for control of the $300,000,000 corporation and as he sat down he pushed in a stack that more than doubled the stakes the Rockefeller forces had laid on the table.

The Rockefeller group claims to hold the proxies of 16,000 of the stockholders. Col. Stewart flatly said he now holds the proxies of more than 32,000. If the claims of both are true, proxies representing some 9,000 of the shareholders still hang in the balance this morning, less than a week from the showdown at the annual meeting of stockholders next Thursday. The company has almost 57,000 stockholders. It is pointed out, however, that the number of proxies held does not necessarily control the election. The number of shares of stock represented by the proxies is the controlling factor.

Many Are Revocations.
"The latest Rockefeller statement," Col. Stewart said, "rejoiced in the claimed possession of proxies from more than twice that number, thousands of which represent revocations of proxies originally given to Mr. Rockefeller Jr. Every mail from east, west, north or south brings more revocations. Today's mail brought a considerable number from persons whose holdings run well into five figures."

Col. Stewart's statement came in answer to one made on Wednesday by Winthrop Aldrich, chairman of the Rockefeller committee and brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller Jr. In it, it is pointed out, Mr. Aldrich and Ivy Lee, a Rockefeller press agent, characterized by the colonel as "the propagandist," claimed "57 per cent of the stock" and the proxies of the 16,000 stockholders, stating also the company has 18,000 employee-stockholders.

Claim Employees' Support.
Col. Stewart points out that not 18,000 but only 7,918 of the 25,000 employees of the company own stock, and concerning the way in which these have voted their sentiments, says:

"Of these 79.67 per cent have executed proxies in my favor."
The colonel then goes into the matter of the possibility of "coercion in obtaining the proxies of the 7,918 employee-stockholders." He says it is not possible.

"In the company's manufacturing department, for instance," he goes on, "there has been in operation for ten years an industrial relations plan under which employee councils, elected by secret ballot, pass on all matters affecting employee welfare. This includes discharge. The rules provide that if the management overrules any decision of the employee councils, whether it affects wages, hours, discharge, or what not, the council may appeal at the expense of the company to the department of labor at Washington, whose decision by express agreement is binding.

"The employees of no other company in the world are as independent or free from coercion as these employees."

CAPTAIN DENIES SALTIS FORCED COP ONTO BEAT

Capt. Paul Wheeler of the Chicago Lawn station, who was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers Wednesday night in regard to the threat made by Jos Salts, south side beer baron, to have a policeman put to traveling "straight post," defended his position yesterday. He said that Policeman James J. McDermott had been placed on night duty, traveling a post along 63d street, as a matter of police routine.

"I'm in bad enough now, and I'm not going to say anything," said McDermott, who, since he assisted government agents in a raid on Salts' garage, which netted cases of Canadian ale and slot machines, has been traveling a post along 63d street. It was reported yesterday that Commissioner Russell was making an investigation of his own in the matter.

—he realizes you can assume responsibility and won't forget it. Slightly, random men could take no greater health-builder than McCoy's Tablets, which give perfect nourishment to your entire body.

That tired, washed-out feeling disappears after a few days with McCoy's—not only your vitality, strength and energy but also your quickness of perception and mental force is amazingly increased and stimulated!

WOMAN ACCUSES 5 OF KIDNAPING, ATTACKING HER

A mother of three children took the witness stand in Chief Justice John J. Sullivan's Criminal court yesterday and told how she had been kidnaped from her escort, taken to a room in year of a grocery at 1201 West street, and attacked by five men. Robert Dwyer, 32 years old, and Rocco Bosello owner of the grocery, are on trial; charged with the crime.

George Bousky, one of the other three accused and said to be a member of the so-called Danny Vallo gang, sought in connection with the north side massacre of members of the Moran gang, fled from the court on Tuesday. His bond of $30,000 was forfeited. He is charged with being the leader of the gang which kidnaped the woman as she was leaving a cabaret at 155 East Ohio street.

"I pleaded with the men to think of their own mothers and sisters and to remember that I was a mother, too," she said. "It did no good, however."

$3,000 REWARD FOR BOMBERS OF QUEBEC PREMIER

(Picture on back page.)
MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 28.—A reward of $3,000 is offered by the provincial government for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who placed a dynamite bomb in Premier Taschereau's private office in the Quebec legislative building on Tuesday night.

Only by the fuse becoming extinguished did the premier escape assassination.

Premier Taschereau made a statement to the legislature this afternoon in which he expressed thanks to Almighty God for his escape, though at the same time he expressed the view that the bomb placer only intended to blow up the office.

"A kindly providence blew out the wick, or fuse," he said. "Whoever did this thing, and with whatever end in view, may be sure of one thing—if he wished to see a change in the politics of our province he cannot achieve it in that manner."

All Emerson Hats have the Emerson Inter-lined, Double-Sewn Sweat Band. A waterproof inter-lining is stitched, first to the sweat leather, then to the hat, keeping sweat leather and its stitching from contact with the felt. This positively protects both the silk band and body of Emerson Hats from stain or spot by perspiration.

All the Essentials of a Good Hat—and Then Some

EACH new season hat styles change—a new shade or two—a slightly different brim, or height and shape of crown. Emerson hats have all of that that any hat can offer. For 53 years, they have reflected the last word not only in style but also in real hat value.

But here is a feature no other hat has—important, practical—the exclusive, patented, Emerson Inter-lined, Double-Sewn Sweat Band. It keeps your Emerson—both felt and silk band—absolutely free from sweat stains. If Emersons did cost more because of this protection, they'd be well worth the difference—but they don't.

GERMAN NA CHIEFS D U-BOAT

Aimed to Make Fear Land

This is the second article giving the wartime leaders responsible for the U-boat Jan. 31, 1917, which caused America's declaration of war. In the first, Zimmerman, former German ambassador to the United States, said the U-boat policy was reported by the military chiefs.

BERLIN, Feb. 28.—The German government's responsibility for the U-boat war is being discussed in the Reichstag today.

"The determination of the country and to the U-boat war is being discussed in the Reichstag today."

"How, after Wilson's message, could there be any being impartial toward powers?" he said. "The for us rather a declaration of war."

GERMAN NAVAL CHIEFS DEFEND U-BOAT POLICY

Aimed to Make Britain
Fear Landing.

This is the second of a series of articles giving the views of German naval leaders regarding the U-boat campaign. The first article, "The U-boat Campaign," was published in the Chicago Tribune on Jan. 21, 1917, which was the first issue of the Chicago Tribune after the declaration of war on Germany. In the first article, Arthur Zimmermann, former German secretary of state under Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg, said the German U-boat policy as regards America was dictated by the military and naval chiefs.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Copyright, 1917, By The Chicago Tribune.
BERLIN, Feb. 21.—Turn to Field Marshal von Hindenburg, now president of the German republic. He does not mince words.
"The determination to use submarine warfare to shorten the sufferings of the country and to relieve the army from its enormous task was present before I took over the supreme command. In so merciless a battle as that waged against our defenseless country it would only be a question of 'an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' Anything else would have seemed treason to one's own blood." He does not believe that the U-boats are to be blamed for America's entry into the war.
"How, after Wilson's peace message, could there be any talk of his being impartial towards the central powers?" he said. "The message was for us rather a declaration of war than a step towards peace. . . . In my opinion, war with America in January, 1917, was inevitable."

Ludendorff Shares Opinion.
Gen. Ludendorff, his right hand, shared this opinion.
"The entry of the United States into the war had nothing to do with the note of Jan. 21," he said. "I had reckoned with it, even if the unrestricted submarine war had not been introduced—if we had been victorious the United States would have turned against us."

But Von Hindenburg and Ludendorff were army men—they had no sea experience. Who convinced them of the necessity of the unrestricted U-boat campaign?
When the note was sent to America, Admiral von Tirpitz was no longer in charge of the navy. His successor was Admiral von Capelle, who sketched the policy under which it might be possible for American ships to sail the oceans without encountering German U-boats. The admiral does not hesitate for a minute to assume the responsibility for the U-boat war.

Admiral von Ingenohl, interviewed on the question, spoke of the memorandum of 1916, signed by Count Holtzendorff, then chief of the admiral staff. It was on this memorandum that the admiral based all its calculations.
Overcome Opposition.
"To put over the U-boat campaign," he said, "the admiral had to overcome the opposition of the Kaiser and his chancellor and of headquarters. Perhaps this accounts for the part of the optimism displayed in the memorandum, which insisted that 'in six months England would be starved out.' This theory was founded on figures provided by food statisticians such as Prof. Levy and his consort, who were the aids of Herr von Buelow. Evidently their figures must have been wrong, because, despite the sinking of numerous food ships, England was not starved. Believing in these figures, the whole navy was united in its demand for the unrestricted U-boat campaign. It would not have insisted on it if it had not believed in them. Admiral Scheer was one of the most fervent advocates of the U-boat campaign."

bility of full blast U-boat war, because he, too, "believed in the facts advanced in the memorandum, that it would be possible to starve England into signing peace with 'second grade humans,' as she termed Germans in her speeches."
Hard Time Convincing Kaiser.
The admiral had a hard time winning over the Kaiser and Hindenburg, he said. The latter had not always been fully sold to the idea of the U-boat war.

"The decisions involved were up to the government and to the admiral staff. The political consequences which might result from the U-boat war had to be weighed. Naturally, the army had to be heard, too."
Both Bethmann-Hollweg and Tirpitz visited me at my Loetzen headquarters. Tirpitz chafed under the inactivity of the German fleet. I also felt that a greater activity of the navy, which would make England fear a possible landing of German troops and thus its down considerable British forces, would justify even heavy losses of the navy.

"The opinion of the foreign office that a German fleet which had suffered no losses in the war would be an important asset in negotiating peace seemed wrong to me. A war instrument which you do not dare use in time of war will be of no great value as an argument in peace negotiations."
Campaign III-Timed.
"Admiral von Tirpitz complained of the ill-timed launching of the first U-boat campaign and that instead of carrying it through, Germany had yielded to the threats of the President of the United States and broken it off at the wrong time."
"In 1918 our duty was to wait and see whether or not the peace negotiations through President Wilson would be successful. After they failed nothing but military considerations could be decisive."
Hindenburg quotes the German soldier who asked: "Our enemies are flooding us with American shells; why can't the ammunition ships be torpedoed?"
"The military advantages of U-boats were obvious," Hindenburg says. "They would cut down the supplies reaching the enemies' lines, cut down reinforcements, help support our overseas operations by relieving Bulgaria and Turkey, cut down the food supplies and the raw material of the allies in the far east and at home; finally force England to make peace."

But Hindenburg, too, did not know everything that was going on in Germany. He hints that his decision might have been different if he had been told the full truth.
"Only from publications which appeared in October, 1918, did I learn that the President of the United States, immediately after his message to the senate, informed the German ambassador of his willingness to open peace negotiations officially," he said. Berlin was advised of this on Jan. 23, 1917. How it happened that I was kept in the dark about this I do not know to the present day."

Who failed to inform the German field marshal of this important fact on the eve of sending off the fatal note which everybody knew might mean war with America? This is still a mystery, but careful investigation has been started.

Of course you watch your child's height and weight. You know whether he is lacking in vitality and endurance. So many children tire so easily during growing years. For under par children physicians are advising a health-builder long known for its power to renew vitality and to increase general resistance to certain infections. Authorities find that Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil—helps to bring the under-weight child up to normal weight. It gives him new vitality; puts the ruddy color of health into his cheeks. Bottled Sunshine does this because it is so rich in two essential vitamins—Vitamin D, the "sunshine vitamin" of which children get so little in these modern days of indoor living, and Vitamin A, which promotes normal growth and nutrition and increases resistance to many infections. When they prescribe cod-liver oil, thousands of physicians specify "Squibb's," because it is vitamin-tested and guaranteed as to its content of the health-protecting Vitamins A and D. Ask your physician about Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil to help your child grow and gain weight as he should. Squibb has a new, mint-flavored cod-liver oil which will appeal to the older children especially. You can get it, as well as Squibb's Plain Cod-Liver Oil at all good drug stores.

Celanese Permanent Moiré can be tested by you—simply plunge it in water and dry it: the moiré design is unharmed. To the best of our knowledge, this is the only such moiré.

You'll find wearing apparel and fabrics of plain shades, and enchanting printed patterns as well, at leading stores—at surprisingly thrifty prices. Celanese Corporation of America, 180 Madison Avenue, New York.

How often the expression—"Konjola is the medicine I should have had in the first place"—is heard by the five Konjola Men who are in Chicago to explain the merits of this wondrous compound. If you are ill and would be well again, then call, without delay, on the Konjola Man nearest you. One Konjola Man is at each of the following drug stores:

The Walgreen drug store, Randolph and State; Walgreen drug store, Wabash and Van Buren; Walgreen drug store, Washington and State; the Economical drug store, Lawrence and Lincoln; the Walgreen drug store, Madison street and Kedzie avenue; the Walgreen drug store, 63rd and Cottage Grove, and the Walgreen drug store, 634 Davis street, Evanston.

These men are not in Chicago to sell Konjola, primarily, but to point the way to health—to tell of Konjola's accomplishments. They will make you no promises, no claims; but will tell you proven, verified facts of this medicine's astounding restorations to health. Case after case, like that of Mr. Alex V. Panakes, 625 South Halsted street, Chicago, will be pointed out by the Konjola Men. Just a few days ago Mr. Panakes said:

"I'll say that Konjola is the master medicine—it certainly proved itself in my case. For four miserable years I suffered from stomach trouble that refused to yield to any medicine or treatment. Each meal brought on gas bloating that caused wild heart palpitation; shortness of breath and nauseating belching spells. My tongue was coated and my appetite failed me completely. For days at a time my bowels did not move. I could not sleep soundly at night and always felt tired and languid. I searched in vain for relief and then came to the conclusion that my case was hopeless.

"About two months ago I made a trip to Indianapolis and while in that city I began hearing about Konjola and its amazing accomplishments. Like a drowning man grasping at a straw, so did I take this opportunity to give Konjola a trial. I felt that it was my last chance for betterment. Well, my confidence was certainly rewarded. Four weeks after I returned to Chicago and started on this medicine, my health had been restored to me. Konjola increased my appetite and restored my digestion. What a joy it is to sit down and enjoy a hearty meal without suffering afterward. My bowels are as regular as clockwork and I sleep soundly through the night, every night. Konjola worked wonders for me. I have heard it called the medicine with more than a million friends. Well, it certainly has a life-long friend in me."

Each of Konjola's 32 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices from roots and herbs, have a special duty to perform on the ailing system. There are no wild promises made for Konjola—it asks but the chance to make you well.

COLBY PROPOSES U. S. AND BRITISH NAVIES BE POOLED

(Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times.)
PARIS, Feb. 28.—Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state in the cabinet of the late President Woodrow Wilson and noted international lawyer, provoked wide discussion here today with the novel suggestion that Great Britain and the United States take a tip from the example of Lloyd's—famous English marine insurance company, now in the third century of its existence—and use the combined navies of the two powers as mutual insurance for the preservation of freedom of the seas and the prevention of all future conflicts.

"Suppose Britain and America combined in such a formula of cooperation," said Mr. Colby. "We would not permit, by virtue of our combined maritime power, a recurrence of such a world catastrophe as that from which we have just issued. Take Lloyd's underwriting—who would be jealous of the underwriters? Am I hurt by the power of the underwriters? No, I am served and protected."

Mr. Colby was addressing a large luncheon gathering at the American club. His contribution to the effort for liquidation of the Anglo-American naval difficulties met with applause. Reduced to its essentials, Mr. Colby's solution is that Great Britain and the United States pool their navies and underwrite world peace, brushing aside as of minor importance the question whether Britain or America has the most cruisers.

Stevens and La Salle Hotels Open Nickel Phone Booths

The Stevens and La Salle hotels yesterday accepted the new rates of the Illinois Bell Telephone company and reopened their public telephone booths, with the public making box local calls for 5 cents. Some of the large Chicago hotels recently closed their booths as a protest against a reduction in the return allowed them by the telephone company.

NEXT WE'LL HEAR THAT THESE BEES WERE SUICIDES

Suffocation was added to the growing list of ailments cited as causes of the death of 48,000,000 bees in the $50,000 damage suit brought by J. W. Cuneo and Ezra Ross, bee farmers of Morris, Ill., against the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railroad, on trial before a jury in Superior Judge John Priests' court yesterday. The Rev. Fr. Francis Jager, professor of agriculture at the University of Minnesota, advanced the suffocation verdict.

Father Jager testified that his conclusion was reached after an examination of hundreds of dead bees. His testimony contradicted that of Thomas Atchison, apiary inspector of the state of Alabama, who earlier in the day said the bees died of starvation.

Other expert witnesses have given as the death causes of the 48,000,000 such reasons as ennu, gang wars, unemployment, homesickness, drooping, and cannibalism. Ross and Cuneo charge that they died because of the railroad's neglect during shipment.

Syringe Captures Beer, So Steve Saltis Is Held

Evidence that prohibition agents are actually "sponge squads" was introduced before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker by Assistant United States District Attorney Edward A. Fisher yesterday in the hearing which resulted in Steve Saltis, brother of Joe, the beer king, being held to the grand jury for violation of the prohibition law. Mr. Fisher presented testimony to the effect that the agents purchased beer from Saltis, drinking part of it and soaking up the rest with a bulb syringe. The evidence was later emptied into a bottle and produced in court.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

Receipts, $405,940

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—In the calm of the morning after, spectators today revealed that the bout of the Everglades, featuring Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling, produced the largest gate for the size of the crowd in the history of boxing.

Total receipts were $405,940 collected from the 29,541 seats sold. Federal taxes amounted to $78,821.44. After other deductions, the net return was $318,546.56. Ticket prices and sales were as follows: $5 seats, 9,664; $10 seats, 7,908; $15 seats, 2,718; $20 seats, 1,787; $25 seats, 1,474.

From the total gate of $405,940, Sharkey received a flat guarantee of $100,000, while Stribling, on a 20 per cent basis, was paid $83,548.51. Referee Lou Magnolia, who was called from New York to handle the fighters, received $200.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28.—Although the prize fight between Jack Sharkey and William Stribling was an immense social and financial success, there were some things about the affair which will militate against a reproduction of the show next year.

To tell the truth, the more or less permanent citizens of the community now wish that less had been said about the gambling houses and Mr. Al Capone in the dispatches dealing with the general proposition of the prize fight.

They are of a peculiar mind about this, as they are great believers in gambling under refined and drowsy conditions in a few casinos where the customers are selected with nice discrimination. They are firmly committed to the proposition that a third party, for a drink, too, but here again they believe in discretion if not necessarily in moderation.

Falls to Recognize Ethics.

But the gambling was carried to a new extreme this season, one large, popular priced house offered roulette at 25 cents a chip, and one speakeasy, conducted by a retired prize fighter, running a display advertisement in one of the leading newspapers quite frankly recommending its line of stimulants.

It is the feeling of the more or less permanent pillars of the business community that, notwithstanding the fact that the lower classes are likely to attract a frowny and therefore undesirable element whose presence would be not only obnoxious to the wealthy but also an incitation to the reformers to start reforming.

It seems to be held that the proprietor of a speakeasy is under the same ethical obligation to refrain from advertising that applies to members of the medical profession. A bootlegger, take it, is classed as a healer, and is expected to develop his practice by merit alone. It is assumed that if he shakes a good bacardi cocktail he administers a reliable brand of liquor, and the world will beat a pathway to his door.

This affinity between the medical and bootlegging professions has been frankly acknowledged by one of the most talented bootleggers on the beach, although I have yet to hear of any doctor who accepts the simile with any enthusiasm.

Appeals for Press Trade.

The young man in question conducts his practice in a modest room, and when the sports writers began to hurry in from the north well in advance of the fight he made a special appeal for their trade. His cards of solicitation read: "Admit to the doctor's office. Press O. K." and presently he came to be known by the affectionate nickname of Doctor Pressok.

His practice was such that he frequently found it necessary to lock the room and go for supplies, at which time he would post a small notice on the door announcing "Gone for medicine; back in half an hour; patients suffering from nervous disorders will be treated first upon Dr. Pressok's return."

Now this was a quiet, orderly office and the magnitude of the doctor's practice tends to prove that advertising is a needless and dangerous vulgarism, and something calling for rebuke by the committee on ethics.

Double Carey's Assurance.

Although Mr. Will Carey of the Madison Square Garden corporation states that there will be a fight every winter at Miami Beach, under the Garden's auspices, I do not believe he means it.

He said today that he had signed a contract with the city commissioners to hold one major bout here each year for a period of five years. The contract, however, is conditional in that the city must pay for moving the wooden structure to Miami before next winter.

This fight was put through only after a period of great doubt and the financial risk was far greater in proportion to the return than the Garden stock.

THE GUMPS—I GUESS EVERYTHING IS GOING TO BE ALL RIGHT NOW

JANE FAUNTZ WINS TWO U. S. SWIM TITLES

New Yorkers Beat
I. W. A. C. in Relay.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Miss Jane Fauntz of the Illinois Women's Athletic club captured two National A. A. U. swim championships in the waters of the Lake Shore Athletic club pool last night.

The first came in the low board diving event, in which Miss Fauntz, who was not present to defend her title, defeated Georgia Coleman, the Los Angeles Athletic club star, who was competing, and so were Dorothy Foynt of Pasadena, Cal.; Kathryn Brown of the Women's Swimming association of New York, and Rose Book of the Cleveland Athletic club.

It was not until Miss Fauntz had given a nearly perfect exhibition and was allowed to repeat her last plunge because the diving board had slipped that she was able to carry away the championship. She scored 193.31 points, six more than Georgia Coleman was able to roll up.

Wins Title from Champ.

A half hour later Miss Fauntz came back to the tank, this time to take part in the 100 yard breast stroke event. She was competing against the national champion, Miss Katherine Meals of the Boston Swimming association, and four other stars. But because of the lack of the starter's pistol until the finish Miss Fauntz was always in front.

Miss Meals raced nearest to her until the last 20 yards, when she found the pace too fast, and in the final yard she lost second place to Margaret Hoffman of the Saratoga Swimming association.

The time was 1:21.43, nearly two seconds slower than the record. The other national title decided last night was the 400 yard relay. The Illinois Women's Athletic club team, champion for a year, was decisively beaten by the Women's Swimming association team of New York.

Helm Leads New Yorks.

Eleanor Helm put the New York team in front as the race started. Ethel McGarry, Lisa Lindstrom, and Martha Norrell, the other members of the eastern quartet, increased the lead by a few minutes. That was Margaret Hoffman, who was the tank, and she was 15 yards in front of her nearest rival from the Illinois Women's Athletic club team as the race ended. The second I. W. A. C. team beat the Cleveland team out for third place. The time was five seconds off the record. Summaries:

In the WAKE of the NEWS

COVERING A FIGHT.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 28.—Friend Don! It was mighty thoughtful of you, Don, to send that telegram to Pegler and me that our stories were O. K. and that you made everything in all editions. It surely was a great relief to us, because for a time, Don, we were up in the air just as much as you were on your end of the line.

Sometimes when I read those letters to you from subscribers asking why your reporters don't do this or do that I wish they could know the things that can happen and the nervous strain one is sometimes under in trying to get stuff back to Chicago. Let me tell you what happened to us.

In the first place, Don, never in thirty years have I attended a sporting event in which the promoters extended such facilities and conveniences to visiting newspaper men to enable them to get all the news. Call it what you will, but it was a relief to me, and it was also to our interest. Well, even the ringside seats were better arranged than usual. To make sure, we went to the arena, inspected the seats from Nat Fiescher's place, and saw that a telegraph operator was next to Pegler and another next to me with direct wires to Chicago. We talked with the telegraph traffic manager and explained just what we wanted.

Now, could anything look finer? So we went to the arena two hours before the first preliminary, so we could be there for the early editions. Well, Don, would you believe it, some boob had removed four feet from the bench and there were our telegraph instruments side by side just where I was to sit. Charley Murray of Buffalo, one of the timekeepers, gave Pegler his seat.

That left me in Pegler's seat. It was a little cramped and my typewriter was against the back of Graham McNamee, who was broadcasting for the circuit on which W-G-N was hooked up. He was also about that, Don, but whenever he forgot and leaned back my typewriter dropped on my lap. Of course, according to those ancient vaudeville jokes, a typewriter on one's lap is not uncommon, but I tell you, Don, a boxing bout is no place to have a typewriter on your lap.

Well, we had our early stories all ready to file at the time you asked, but I was so busy that I forgot to file. Somebody slipped a cog and forgot to make any provision for their transportation from Miami and they got caught in the jam across the way, so it was half an hour after the stories should have been in the office before they showed up.

Meantime, Don, we had given our stories to the other telegraph company in the hope of getting them through. Remember when you talked to me over the direct wire and you said there was not a line in the office yet? It was near edition time and I told you stories had been filed forty minutes before that? That was true. Then you said to write new stories and I said we would start new stories within five minutes. That was true, Don, because I did not dare tell Pegler, because he had been writing for an hour and I had worked with him before.

Instead, Don, I got the manager of the other telegraph company and he had a good fellow and I told him we had to have our original copy back. So we hired a messenger to get it from the main office at the back of the arena. When he came back with them already filed once, we shot it over the one direct wire we had and I got the wire chief to open up another circuit so we could have two direct wires.

So, whether or not any one originally was to blame, you can imagine how relieved we were when we received that "Good-night, O. K. Everything arrived in time for all editions." Then I told Peg what had happened. He was raving yet about the service we received, but at that, Don, they were trying to serve us.

Pegler is very conscientious in his work, as you know, so I shudder to think what would have happened had he known at the time that his brain child was lost for about thirty minutes somewhere on the loop to Atlanta, Washington, New York to Chicago. And, believe me, Don, I'm glad that's over.

I am not writing any fight aftermath today because Pegler is taking the "cleanup" story and I thought you probably would rather I played golf at Boca Raton with the boss. I'll tell you about that later. Regards,
HARVEY E. WOODRUFF.

16 WHITE SOX PITCH CAMP AT DALLAS TODAY

Two Rookies Join Squad
at St. Louis.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 28.—Aside from the surprising fact that none of the athletes was lost in the crush of camp followers, club officials and scribes, nothing of importance developed during the early hours of the journey that is taking Boss Lena Blackburne and his White Sox performers toward their Dallas training camp.

The advance on the hog and hominy belt was delivered slightly by a couple of the scribes who gave unmistakable signs of having celebrated during the hours immediately preceding the departure from Chicago this morning. Owing to their social activities these gentlemen were not aware that Bib Falk had been traded to Cleveland for Martin Autry. When informed this more actually had occurred they promised to investigate and give their readers the facts at a later date.

Blackburne isn't sure about his training program for the first few days, but does know that there is going to be enough work to keep everybody busy. The arrival at Dallas is scheduled for tomorrow noon and as soon as the boys have taken aboard a little lunch they will be escorted to the park and put through a couple of hours of loosening up.

Connolly Develops Allment.

Autry, the new catcher, was already on the way from his home at Bay side, Tex., to the Indians' camp at New Orleans, when he was traded to the Sox, but it is expected he'll complete his tour in time to get back to Dallas by tomorrow night.

The honor of being the first invader was voluntarily carried off by the inimitable Sgt. Connolly, who some times pitches. Before the train pulled out of Chicago, the sergeant had developed a gripe, tonsillitis, falling arches, and melancholy. He is hopeful, however, of being back on his feet not later than next Labor day.

MALONEY RULES 10-8 FAVORITE AGAINST HEENEY

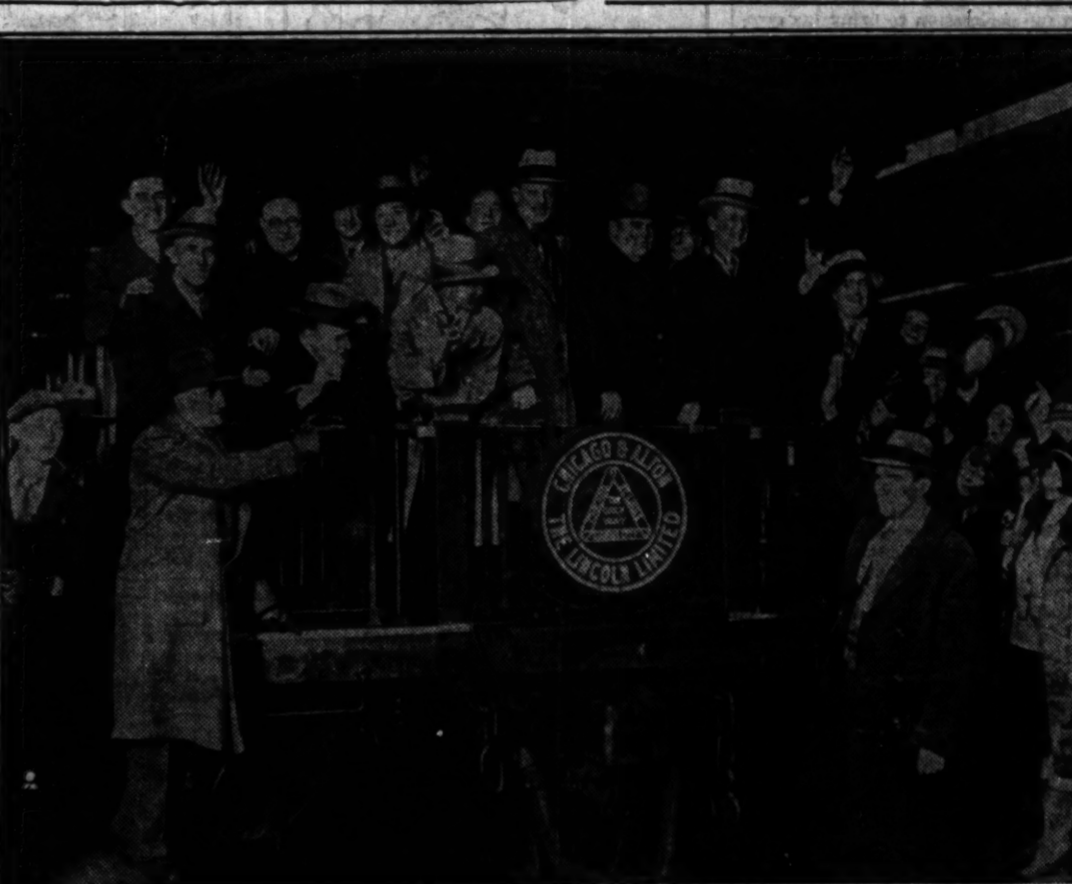

Boston, Mass., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Installed as a ten to eight favorite in the betting, Jimmy Maloney, Boston heavyweight, today ended training for his ten round clash with Tom Heenev of New Zealand tomorrow night in the Boston Garden.

Maloney appeared to be in remarkable shape and was confident that he would average the one round knockout the New Zealander scored on him in their first meeting eighteen months ago.

Barbuti Draws Suspension for Attacking A. A. U.

New York, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400 meter champion, was suspended indefinitely today by the registration committee of the Metropolitan association of the Amateur Athletic union. The action was taken as a result of published statements, credited to Barbuti, criticizing the A. A. U. and its policies.

According to published reports, Barbuti, angry over being summoned to explain his failure to run at the New York A. C. games, launched into what appeared to be an extemporaneous attack on A. A. U. policies while he was lining the pockets of the A. A. U. and its affiliated clubs for years and that the organization expected athletes to sacrifice their business for the $200 or $300 in expenses the performers receive. He was quoted as declaring that the term "amateur" as applied to track and field athletics was a misnomer.

"I'm through with that gang of four fluffers forever," he was quoted by a newspaper. "I inquired of the leading athletic stars of today and not one of them is making a decent living in business. The A. A. U. and the clubs do not sell insurance for me. I don't owe them anything and I can't afford to sacrifice my future for what they would pay me. I'm done with them. I never shall pull on a running shoe again, either in indoor or outdoor competition."

Subsequently the committee, unaware of this blast, came out of their huddle and cleared Barbuti of any violation of A. A. U. regulations in neglecting to appear at the New York A. C. games. Other star athletes, such as Nurni, Cabot Quinn, Beakin, Lattman, Tierney, and Hussey were not so lucky.

Cubs' Lineup Still Secret as Practice Tilt Nears

BY EDWARD BURNS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Avaton, Cal., Feb. 28.—Manager Joe McCarthy still is holding out on the authors and the world at large as to his batting order, and it does not now seem that he will tip his mitt when the first formal encounter of the year is undertaken Saturday afternoon.

Having received no answer to his challenge of the U. S. Navy, Joe McCarthy continues to insist that the first regulation game of 1929 with an all-Cub cast and the batting order mystery is to prevail because the boys plan to use his regular infielders on one team and miscellaneous outfielders on both teams, and how can an author solve a mystery with that kind of business going on?

One of the problems which will be answered, however, is the one about who is to play first base. If Charley Grimm cuts his hand on a handle during the championship season, with Joe Kelly and Senator Tolson both sold down the river, folks have been wondering about Mr. McCarthy's notions in this regard.

Probable Practice Lineup.

Today the Cubs' manager announced that Jackson Riggles, Stephenson, and the first batting on one of the practice teams and that he will continue in the Grimm understudy role throughout the season.

Thomas J. Shaughnessy, manager of the Chicago Athletic association's amateur hockey team, will take over the job of managing and coaching Chicago's ever losing Blackhawks next year, according to seemingly reliable rumors yesterday. Confirmation was lacking as President Frederic McLaughlin is in Florida and M. J. Tobin, secretary of the club, is with the team in Detroit.

Shaughnessy denied the rumor at first and on further questioning fell back on Lindbergh's favorite phrase: "I have nothing to say." Inasmuch as a new manager would be inclined to permit his bosses to make the announcement, Shaughnessy's denial of such a contract was hardly unexpected.

Shaughnessy is a Notre Dame hockey star of fifteen years ago but never has played in the major leagues. He played with the Rat Portage, Ont., team and with his high school team in Winnipeg before going to Notre Dame, where he was captain in his sophomore year. He played goal and defense in 1915, 1916 and 1917 with the Ramblers and later was with the town team of Marquette, Mich.

With C. A. A. 3 Years.

Three years ago he took over the management of the C. A. A. team and in the first two years won the championship of the Chicago senior amateur hockey league. This year the team has played independent hockey. In the three years the Cherry Circle team has won 25, tied 5 and lost 9 games. Shaughnessy also is secretary of the middle western division of the United States Amateur Hockey association.

Shaughnessy will take over the reins dropped by Herbert Gardiner, when that great defense man was recalled by the Blackhawks for the season as a coaching manager. Gardiner was captain of the C. A. A. team and credited with a large part of their success in breaking every hockey scoring record last year.

Canadians Need Gardiner.

The Montreal Frenchmen need him badly this year to strengthen their defense in the final drive to lead the international division of the National Hockey league and in the Stanley cup series to follow. His recall was obvious from the standpoint of a high scoring hockey team sorely in need of a good defense man, though there have been some hints of other reasons for the recall. The most logical was seen in Maj. McLaughlin's withdrawal from the directorate of the Arlington Heights track, at which Joe Cattinich, owner of Les Canadiens, held the part-time privileges last year.

HAWKS TIE RANGERS

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 28.—(AP)—New York's champion Rangers were held to a scoreless tie in a National Hockey league game with the tall and Chicago Blackhawks here tonight, largely because of the efforts of Chuck Gardiner, wily Hawk goalie.

While the New Yorkers held an edge in the play throughout the game, they could not beat the goalie, who stopped difficult shots from all angles. The famous last minute drive of the Rangers, in which they sent three and four men down the ice and through the weak Hawk defense, failed before the agile Gardiner.

BROKERS' LOANS RISE; RESERVE SEEMS CONTENT

Increase for Week Is $30,000,000.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The picture of the federal reserve board and the banks as they seek to crush speculation and crash the stock market grew fainter yesterday. In fact, it would seem that the reserve authorities, while still insisting that too much reserve credit is finding its way into speculative channels, is willing to be more reasonable than its first sharp warning three weeks ago indicated.

The weekly report on brokers' loans, issued by the reserve board late yesterday, showed an increase of $30,000,000 in the last week. It showed the New York federal reserve member banks lending $5,507,000,000, which also marks an increase of $1,755,000,000 over a year ago. But the current increase appears moderate in view of the continued recovery of stock prices and also that it followed a total decline of $192,000,000 in the preceding fortnight.

Another indication of satisfaction over progress made in reducing the amount of federal reserve credit in speculation was the fact that the New York reserve bank made no change in its 5 per cent. rediscout rate.

All Stock Market.
The New York member banks came to the aid of the stock market by increasing their own loans to brokers by $57,000,000, which did much to offset a reduction of $93,000,000 in loans for interior banks. Other lenders, including the big corporations, poured an additional $58,000,000 in the call money market.

The heavy demand for credit for month-end commercial purposes, preparations for federal tax payments a fortnight hence and the attitude of the reserve board joined to cause the interior banks to withdraw funds from the stock market. But the reserve authorities appear willing to have the New York member banks meet part of this shrinkage, particularly as the aggregate of loans by all banks was reduced by $28,000,000. The increase by the New York banks, coupled with the smaller increase by other lenders,

Battle Lines Are Drawn in Field of Tariff Revision

BY SCRUTATOR.

Hearings on the proposed revision of the tariff have brought, as was expected, a lineup of interested groups battling for special advantages.

Farmers who were promised last fall a schedule that would equalize their standing with that of manufacturers are demanding high duties on imports of grains, vegetables and fruits and low duties on agricultural machinery.

They are seeking, too, more protection on hides. This proposal is opposed by the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association. New dispatches several days ago quoted representatives of this body as stating that if the farm bureau federation obtained its wish along this line the price of shoes to the consumer would increase 90 cents to $1 a pair.

At a later hearing the Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association appeared to demand for a tariff on shoes, with a different line of argument. It stated that the time the plea was that foreign manufacturers could buy the same machinery that Americans could and that shoes from Czechoslovakia, where modern industrial methods are being used. Most of our imports of shoes come from that country, although the production is negligible.

Marked Increase.
So far as shoe-making is concerned, the United States more than held its own last year. The department of commerce reports that domestic production of leather footwear reached 344,350,724 pairs, three-quarters of a million more than in 1927. The most marked increase was in women's shoes—7,500,000 pairs. The number made for sale to men actually fell off.

Retailers, generally, oppose any tariff on leather or on shoes. Farmers who want cotton protected have as adversaries the tire makers and the thread spinners, who desire cheap raw material.

Some of the more extreme proposals probably prevented a runaway call money market.

The report again emphasizes the fact that most of the increase in credit afforded to speculators in the last year is represented by corporations and banks, over which the reserve board and the banks have no control. Even now the New York banks are lending $59,000,000 less than a year ago, while the interior banks are lending $259,000,000 more. Thus the total increase for the banks is $210,000,000. But the "other lenders" are lending $1,575,000,000 more than a year ago and their total of $2,724,000,000 represents practically half of aggregate brokers' loans.

Month-End Credit Demand.
The federal reserve banks also have permitted increased borrowing by the ments of high tariff want duties on goods that have no competitive manufacture in this country. A representative of the National Horticultural council went before a congressional committee and asked that bananas be taxed.

His explanation was that if people found this tropical fruit getting high priced they would turn to apples as a substitute and that it would require $74,000 acres of apples to supply the demand thus created. This presupposes that all banana eaters become apple eaters, which is unlikely.

Works Both Ways.
Some quite impossible things seem to be expected of the new attempt at tariff making. Tariff is like a railroad rate. It can operate beneficially no a certain point, but it can hardly equalize conditions. A high schedule may be more a detriment to American manufacturers than a benefit.

It has been pointed out that the largest automobile manufacturers in the country favored a decrease in tariff on cars in 1922, feeling that retaliatory tariffs would hurt their export business, while the duty was not necessary to keep out foreign competition. This happened. England raised its tariff on American motors to 33-1-3 per cent.

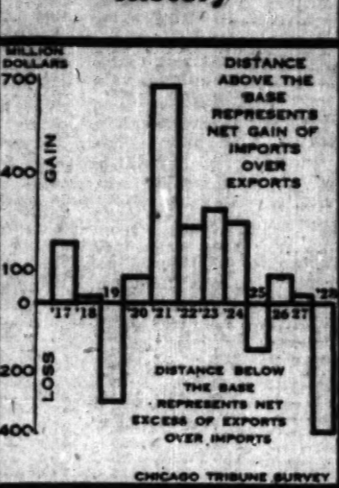

Any tariff plan that fails to take into consideration the markets that may be destroyed for American goods will prove a failure. Although the imports of agricultural products in 1928 were 1,880 million dollars and the exports only 1,818 million, more than half the imports were silk, coffee, tea, spices, banana, jute, and other products not grown commercially in this country. Only $47 million dollars' worth was in actual competition with our farmers.

The banana consumer is probably inarticulate. But the banana importer probably isn't. It is the competitors for tariff who may be depended on to prevent too great injustices being done any group.

member banks in the last week to meet the month-end demand for credit for commercial purposes. This is evident from the weekly statement of condition of the whole reserve system, also issued last night. Borrowings by the member banks increased $97,000,000 to a total of $952,482,000. But the reserve banks continued their policy of forcing the banks to carry bankers' acceptances, as shown by a reduction of $21,651,000 in holdings of such bills. Government securities also declined $6,189,000.

Total deposits rose $51,951,000 and note circulation was up $2,376,000. Gold and total reserves increased $5,738,000 and $4,303,000 respectively. The ratio of reserves to liabilities eased to 69.3 per cent, compared with 70.8 per cent in the preceding week.

Rise in Copper Becoming Sensation of Metal Market

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 28.—Favorable news flooded the copper industry today. Some of the largest consumers in the country scrambled into the market eagerly and the price of red metal for domestic and foreign shipment was increased by half a cent per pound overnight, establishing another new peak at 19 1/2. At the same time the Greene-Canaan's and Inspiration Consolidated Copper companies announced substantial increases in their dividend rates.

The sharp rise in the price of copper has been almost sensational. Today's increase represents an advance of 1 1/2 cents a pound this week. The market now is at the highest level in a decade, with every indication that 20 cent copper will be realized shortly.

Copper Products.
Following the fresh rise in the price of copper the American Brass company raised prices of all its copper products excepting wire half a cent a pound. Prices of brass products were advanced 1/2 of a cent, including nickel silver and all classes of scrap.

Sales of the metal at the new high level are reported to have been very large, both for domestic and foreign shipment. A feature of the demand from large fabricators has been for prompt shipment, as well as for late March and early April delivery. That demand indicates that fabricators had failed to cover all of their requirements on the buying movement a few months ago.

Conditions in the market are bordering on a panic because of the inability of producers to sell copper for early delivery. It is believed that foreign fabricators have large contracts to cover for March and April. In the meanwhile producers are sold out. It is said that there is no copper available for prompt delivery and very little for future shipment earlier than June.

Effect of Shortage.
That this shortage is having a beneficial influence on companies engaged in mining copper may be easily seen in their earnings reports and dividend declarations. Greene-Canaan's disbursement, announced today, was $2 for the quarter. This compares with $1.50 quarterly dividend previously distributed. The company resumed dividends last May at the rate of $4 a year and raised the rate to $6 in November.

The directors of the Inspiration Consolidated Copper company declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share, thus putting the stock on a $4 annual basis. The company had resumed dividend payments last November with a declaration of 75 cents a share. Altogether eleven copper companies have raised dividends within the last few months.

Copper shares were again in the van, Kennecott, Anaconda, Andes, Nevada, Chile, Greene, Inspiration, Calumet and Arizona, and Miami all mounting to fresh high levels.

Merchandise issues were conspicuously buoyant, express stocks soaring sensationally and a number of specialties were bid up sharply.

Mr. Joseph D. Oliver, Chairman of the Oliver Farm Equipment Company, has furnished the following information:

Oliver Farm Equipment Company has been incorporated in Delaware to acquire the business and properties of Oliver Chilled Plow Works, Nichols & Shepard Company and Hart-Parr Company. These concerns have been pioneers in the agricultural equipment industry, the business of Oliver Chilled Plow Works having been established originally in 1855, that of Nichols & Shepard Company in 1848, and that of Hart-Parr Company in 1897.

The products manufactured comprise practically a complete line of farm equipment. Insofar as the line of products is not complete, the Company proposes to make such additions as may be desired. Dealer and agency connections are already established in all agricultural countries of the world. The manufacturing plants are located at South Bend, Indiana, Battle Creek, Michigan, and Charles City, Iowa. The properties are modern, well equipped, adaptable to economical manufacture and may be extended readily to meet the requirements of increased sales volume.

The Prior Preferred Stock, Series A, the Convertible Participating Stock, and the Common Stock are being issued in connection with the acquisition of the business and properties of the predecessor companies, and to provide additional working capital. Substantially the entire amounts of Convertible Participating Stock and Common Stock will be distributed to the stockholders of the predecessor companies.

On the basis of the pro forma balance sheet of the Company, prepared from the consolidated balance sheets of the predecessor companies and their allied companies as of December 31, 1928, adjusted to give effect to the present financing and transactions incidental thereto, the net tangible assets, after deducting all liabilities, amount to $39,429,673, equivalent to more than $197 per share of Prior Preferred Stock of Series A to be presently outstanding. Net current assets alone amount to $29,361,915, equivalent to more than $146 per share of Prior Preferred Stock of Series A to be presently outstanding. The fixed assets as stated on the balance sheet represent actual book values of the predecessor companies which are substantially less than present depreciated reproduction values.

For the year ended December 31, 1928, the combined net income available for dividends, eliminating interest charges and Federal income taxes of the predecessor companies and deducting Federal income taxes at the present rate of 12%, amounted to $3,094,478, equivalent to more than 2½ times the annual dividend requirements on the 200,000 shares of Prior Preferred Stock, Series A, to be presently outstanding. It is estimated that under combined operation, the sales and net income of the Company will be substantially increased.

The management of the Company will be drawn from the present officers of the predecessor companies. The management personnel will have a very substantial interest in the Convertible Participating Stock and the Common Stock of the Company.

Application will be made to list the Prior Preferred Stock, Series A, the Convertible Participating Stock, and the Common Stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

We offer this Stock if, as, and when issued to and received by us, subject to the consummation of all proceedings necessary to the acquisition of the properties and businesses of the predecessor companies and to the approval thereof by our counsel, Messrs. Shearman & Sterling. The accounts of the predecessor companies for the four years ended December 31, 1928, have been audited by Messrs. Arthur Andersen & Company, Accountants and Auditors. It is expected that delivery in the first instance will be made on or about April 2, 1929, in the form of interim receipts or temporary stock certificates.

Belief that the stringencies of the credit situation would be out of the way before the close of the day brought considerable buying to the Chicago stock market and the pushing up of the call money rate from a renewal rate of 8 to 10 per cent was ignored.

Considerable interest was centered in the radio list, where Grigsby-Grunow shot up four points to 178, only to be hammered down in the last few minutes of trading to 174 1/2, a net gain of 1/4 on the day. Buying in Sonarion Tube brought a gain of a major fraction to that issue. Directors of the company placed the stock on a $1.50 annual basis, compared with $1 previously. The company also had paid an extra of 12 1/2 cents. The new dividend rate is equal to $6 a share on the old stock, on which a 500 per cent stock disbursement was declared recently.

Makes New Record.
Nathan Christensen, president, stated that January sales and earnings established new records for the month. He added that net sales totaled $258,487 and net earnings after taxes totaled $111,675. The earnings for the month are equal to around 40 cents a share on the outstanding stock.

Allied Products led the automotive group with a gain of 3 1/2. Auburn Automobile was up a point in early dealings on the announcement that unfilled retail orders in New England as of Feb. 23 totaled 3,000 cars, against less than fifty cars in the hands of distributors. A year ago the same district had unfilled orders of 183 while around 900 cars were available. Brown Manufacturing was up 1 1/2.

Heads General List.

Electric Household Utilities led the general list with a 2 1/2 point advance coupled with reports of increased sales. Acme Steel sold 2 points higher. Oil-Matic was up 1 1/2 on a statement from C. U. Williams, president, that the company will announce a deal

Crane company was unchanged on light trading. The company reported net income of $7,514,198, equal to $2.61 a share after preferred dividends, for 1928, compared with $6,693,160, or $2.43 a share in 1927. Profit and loss surplus stands at $20,448,277, against $17,825,415.

United Verde Extension Mining.

H. E. M. Keweenaw, Ill. In its annual report United Verde Extension Mining company states that development work shows possibilities of discovery of ore on its properties below present ore bodies are extremely remote.

The vice president of the company is reported saying at the annual meeting that further development is expected to add to the three years' life of the property indicated by reserves now blocked out.

On 18 cent copper, profits after depreciation and depletion of around $4.50 per share are estimated for 1929 against 97 cents reported for 1928, and nothing for 1927.

Gross income for the year ending Dec. 31, 1928, was $7,147,438. For 1927 the gross income was $5,802,206.

Net profit for 1928 was $1,020,026, as against a loss of $535,771 for 1927. A deficit for 1928 of $1,073,974 was reported. The previous year the company had a deficit of $3,483,771.

Total surplus Dec. 31, 1928, was $15,957,951, as against $16,042,721 a year before.

Current assets were $3,425,940 in 1928, $5,577,519 in 1927.

Current liabilities dropped from $955,130 in 1927 to $431,663 in 1928. Net working capital was $5,044,278 at the close of the year, which compares with $5,622,588 at the end of 1927.

The annual dividend rate was increased in February, 1929, to $3 from the $2 rate previously paid.

The capital stock is medium grade and speculative.

Officials of the company in recent statements estimated that the shares had a liquidating value based on the balance sheet and present ore reserves of around $15 a share.

This estimate did not make any allowance for the speculative value that still remains in the mine.

APPROVE STOCK INCREASE.

Gulf States Steel stockholders have approved changing $100 par common stock to no par value and increasing authorized common to 250,000 from 125,000.

The transfer, unique in railroad annals, is the only one of comparable importance that has received the unanimous approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Final details will be finished tomorrow, when a check for $121,351,000 will be made for the roads to be accepted by Mr. Cowie, president elect of the Railway Express Agency.

Mr. Henry Solomons, Chairman of the Board of the corporation, has summarized his letter as follows:

The corporation was organized under the laws of Delaware to acquire the business of The Yvette Company, a New Jersey corporation, which was previously conducted under the same management. This business was established 28 years ago in New York City with an original capital of $10,000. It has grown to its present size entirely through the management of its earnings. The corporation operates hairdressing and beauty shops in 37 of the leading department stores in thirty-four principal cities in the United States. It has operated 15 years or more in 24 of the following department stores:

Mandel Bros., Chicago
Fred. Looser & Co., Inc., Brooklyn
John Shillito Co., Cincinnati
The May Company, Cleveland
The May Company, Denver
Wise, Smith & Co., Hartford

Howard-Hughes Co., Waterbury
S. Kamm Sons Co., Washington
O'Connor, Moffat & Co., San Francisco

The products of the company, such as skin creams, skin lotions, cleansing creams, cosmetics and toiletries are sold under the name of Catherine Day. The corporation owns the exclusive license for the manufacture and sale of the Evers permanent wave machine in the United States and foreign countries. This unusual and practical machine weighs only three pounds and can be carried and used wherever there is an electric light connection, and is considered to be the greatest advancement today in this field. Its success has been demonstrated beyond question by practical use. The company will shortly have the machines in use in all its departments, and will lease them throughout the country to independent users. The leasing and use of the Evers should result in very substantial profits for the company.

SALES AND EARNINGS: The sales of the company have grown from $335,000 in 1912 to $2,931,307.26 for the year ended December 31, 1928 (December computed). The business has shown a profit every year it has been in existence. Net earnings as adjusted by Messrs. Lingley, Baird & Dixon, giving effect to non-recurring charges (amounting to $47,600), charged to expenses of the predecessor company during 1928, and after deduction for income taxes at present rates, were as follows:

Year Ended	Net Earnings After Taxes and Dividends	Per Share of Preferred Stock	No. of Shares	Balance Per Share on 40,000 Shares
12-31-28	$255,434.82	$6.38	33,19	$1.96
12-31-27	266,728.79	6.66	3,33	2.07
12-31-26	281,928.56	7.04	3,52	2.17
12-31-25	281,159.63	7.03	3,51	2.23

Due to the liquidation of bank loans and other liabilities and the additional working capital provided for by this financing, it is conservatively estimated that earnings for the current year will amount to at least $350,000—exclusive of substantial profits to accrue from the Evers Permanent Wave Machine and the nation-wide marketing of Catherine Day products, the sale of which has been heretofore confined exclusively to the company's shops.

ASSETS: The balance sheet of the company, as of November 30, 1928, after giving effect to the formation of the new company, and as certified to by Messrs. Lingley, Baird & Dixon, shows current assets of $634,600.57 and current liabilities of $557,511.54, or a ratio of 11.30 to 1.

The company is carrying its fixed assets upon the books as of November 30, 1928, at a depreciated value of $744,301.28. These assets are insured for $1,848,250, on a 90% basis.

DIVIDENDS: The Directors have declared the quarterly dividend payable April first on the convertible cumulative preference stock.

MANAGEMENT: Those who have been responsible for the founding, successful development and operation of this business in the past are to continue in the management and control of the company.

We offer these units, if, as and when issued and accepted by us, subject to approval of counsel as to all legal matters and to the right to reserve to reject any and all subscriptions in whole or in part or to alter a smaller amount than subscribed for, and to close the subscription books at any time without notice.

Meas. Fred T. Ley, Harold A. Ley, Leo L. Ley, and their associates who together have conducted the affairs of the predecessor organizations (Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc. of Massachusetts and affiliated corporations) and will continue in the management of this company, will acquire by reorganization or otherwise 100,000 shares of the presently outstanding stock and 50,000 shares will be sold for additional working capital and for other corporate purposes.

The following is a summary by Fred T. Ley, President, of his letter regarding Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc.:

HISTORY AND BUSINESS: The business, through its predecessor companies, originated in 1893, when a partnership was formed with an initial capital of $500 and has been built up by the individuals who still control and manage the company.

Throughout its history, the company (through its predecessors) has continuously engaged in the business of constructing office buildings, apartment houses, hotels, banking houses, industrial plants, railways, dams, power plants, bridges, water supply and hydraulic systems, transmission lines, etc. The greater part of this construction business is accomplished on a cost plus basis, which makes for stability of earnings. Construction activities have been largely confined to Eastern and Southern United States and to South American countries.

The company (through its predecessors) has also been engaged in the development, control and operation, for its own account, of large real estate projects, located for the most part in New York City. It will own through its subsidiary the equities above mortgages in the Westinghouse Building (fee and long-term leasehold) at 150 Broadway, the Professional Building (fee) at 30 East 40th Street and the Hale Building (long-term leasehold) at 11 East 44th Street, all in New York City. In addition it will own one-third of the preferred and common stock of the Fisk Building (fee) at Broadway and 57th Street, New York City.

The value of the three properties entirely owned, plus the full fee value of the Fisk Building, as appraised recently by Albert B. Ashforth, Inc., of New York City, is $16,250,000. Deducting therefrom the entire mortgage debt of these properties which is approximately 63% of the appraised value, the value of these ownerships, including the one-third interest in the Fisk Building, is $3,807,416. This total does not include real estate owned outside New York City.

EARNINGS: The earnings of Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc. of Massachusetts and the New York real estate companies, as certified by Messrs. Scovell, Wellington & Company, available for dividends on the stock of Fred T. Ley & Co., Inc. of Delaware, after deducting Federal income taxes at the current rate of 12%, have been as follows:

KNITTERS' STRIKE VIOLENCE BEFORE GRAND JURY QUIZ

Court Swears Inquisitors
Behind Locked Doors.

BY HAL FOUST.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Kenosha, Wis., Feb. 28.—[Special.]—A grand jury was impaneled here today to investigate Kenosha's twelve months of crime accompanying a strike of 300 knitters of the Allen-A. Mills Circuit Judge, W. B. Belden, in charging the jurors, avoided any direct reference to the labor trouble, but it was the 21 unsolved bombings, 14 shootings, 27 arrests for injunction violations, 4 community disturbances which prompted the court to act.

It is the second grand jury here in six years. The last one, in 1921, resulted in the conviction on bribery charges of a district attorney, a sheriff, an undertaker, and a chief of police in addition to the conviction of twenty-five others on liquor cases.

Sworn Jurors Behind Locked Doors.

Judge Belden, after swearing in the jurors behind the locked doors of his court room, issued a public statement, declaring that many unsolved crimes necessitated a grand jury, and that he was calling on the citizens of Kenosha to cooperate with the investigation.

"If this community wishes the grand jury to function properly," his statement concludes, "all persons who know of facts concerning any crime committed in Kenosha county should perform their civic duty by laying such facts before the grand jury directly or by communicating them to the district attorney or the special prosecutor."

The district attorney is Morris Barwood, who was elected in November with the striking knitters opposing the incumbent, former District Attorney Lewis Powell. The special prosecutor, appointed by the court, is Vilas H. Winder of Racine, Wis., former state commander of the American Legion and district attorney here in 1916 and 1917.

Barwood said he has no evidence for the grand jury. Whether the grand jury will be able to do its duty is a question that will be answered in a few days. The grand jury will be sworn in at 10 o'clock today.

The question of finances is causing an industrial fight before the senate at Madison. The present grand jury law provides that a county board can appropriate no more than $10,000 a year for investigation and special prosecutors. The Kenosha board voted $40,000 for the present grand jury, but the legality of the fund was attacked by Robert V. Baker, judge of the Kenosha County court, attorney for the Kenosha trades and labor council, and lawyer for the strikers. Senator Conrad Shearer, secretary of the Kenosha Manufacturers' association, has a bill pending before the upper house judiciary committee that would remove this limit on expenditures in counties with cities of between 40,000 and 100,000.

In the knitters' strike, the grand jury has an industrial problem that has few parallels in the history of the state. The strikers are not only foreign laborers. They are home town boys, a large number of them with high school education. The youths who took over their jobs are their neighbors. The clashes have had the bitterness of a family quarrel. Some of the trouble has been attributed to visits by radical agitators, attempting to incite European bolshevism into this very much American community of 55,500 population. Knitter union officials have denounced these soap box speakers. The organizers of the strikers were Louis F. Bueh of New Jersey, former publicity man for the strikers, and a public speaker against United States intervention in Nicaragua.

Affairs Local Politics.

The strike or lockout as some call it—was reflected also in local politics. The jobs knitters not only helped defeat former District Attorney Powell but the social unrest also brought about the resignation of a city attorney and a city manager and the discharge of a chief of police.

Members of the grand jury are: J. D. Rosenblum, foreman, real estate and insurance; W. H. Fessel, an office employee; George W. Anderson, lumber company manager; Andrew W. Foster, an accountant; James Bullamore, merchant; George Sheppard, filling station proprietor; Les McVicar, auto dealer; H. D. Wick, retired electrician; Harry Thompson, farmer; John Tomlinson, insurance and real estate; Elbert Carroll, office employee; John D. Puseena, office employee; Frank Rhodes, farmer; Harry Meyer, crutcher; and Frank Nelson, retired realty operator.

Charles J. Happel, 72, Veteran Politician, Dies

Charles J. Happel, 72 years old, a native Chicagoan and a political officer for nearly forty years, died on Wednesday at the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, of which he was superintendent from 1916 to 1924 and where he has since been retained in an advisory capacity. He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Etta Quinn, wife of a staff physician at the sanitarium. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Holy Apostles' Episcopal church, Leland and Drake avenues. Burial will be in Waldheim cemetery.

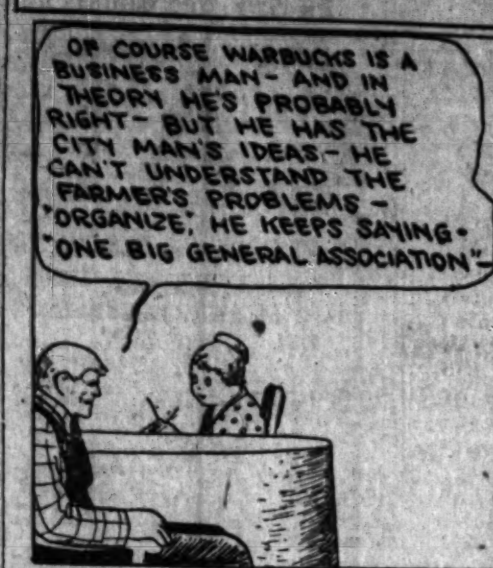

Friends Attend Funeral of Reuben H. Donnelly

Funeral services for Reuben H. Donnelly, Chicago publisher, were held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 1145 Sheridan road, Lake Forest. Dr. John Timothy Stone conducted the service, assisted by four other ministers. Hundreds of Chicago business men and neighbors of Mr. Donnelly in Lake Forest attended the service and burial rites in Roshill cemetery. Although the funeral notices requested the omission of flowers, the home was banked with floral tributes.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Too Much Money

OF COURSE WARBUCKS IS A BUSINESS MAN—AND IN THEORY HE'S PROBABLY RIGHT—BUT HE HAS THE CITY MAN'S IDEAS—HE CAN'T UNDERSTAND THE FARMER'S PROBLEMS—'ORGANIZE, HE KEEPS SAYING—'ONE BIG GENERAL ASSOCIATION'—

HE SAYS ONE OF OUR TROUBLES HAS BEEN WE'VE HAD TOO MANY LITTLE MEN FOR LEADERS—THAT WE NEED STRONG AND BRAINY MEN—THAT'S ALL RIGHT—AND HE SAYS AN ORGANIZATION LIKE WE NEED WOULD BE THE BIGGEST COMBINE IN THE COUNTRY—TRUE ENOUGH—

BUT HE SAYS A LEADER BIG ENOUGH TO MAKE EVEN A HUNDRED THOUSAND OR MORE A YEAR—GREAT SCOTT! IS THE MAN CRAZY? A HUNDRED THOUSAND! FOR WHAT? HOW COULD ANY MAN REALLY EARN THAT MUCH? IT ISN'T POSSIBLE—

LOYD GEORGE
PAINTS BRITAIN
AS FRENCH S

Pledges Jobs to
if Given Power

BY JOHN STEEL

(Chicago Tribune Press Service)
LONDON, March 1.—Chamberlain's attack on the British government with an eloquent denunciation of projected Liberalism, David Lloyd George sounded the cry of the Liberal party at luncheon and rally today.

Although unemployment was not mentioned, the picturesque speaker, who said he was not a member of the Liberal party, was mercilessly trampled by the Conservative party. He compared Chamberlain to a carter with a rut who sits idly smoking and smoking, declaring, "Leave it to me."

Unemployment, reduced wages, depressed agriculture, government tax scheme and principal counts for the Conservatives, to which was added criticism of "the foolish settlement of the American debt waiting for an international event which would have wiped out and started the world."

"Not a French Province," he said. "If it is a matter of peace, we have to wait what France has to say. A question of armaments, we must wait until we know what the French say. We do not seem to have our own voice in these matters."

Promises to furnish a decision to restore world peace, called for an alternative to the League of Nations, as well as the "struggle of the United States and course of the Anglo-French pact."

Declaring there was no more serious time than before the Liberal government had power for eight years, Mr. George pledged that if they were given the chance at the election, they were ready with which will be put in immediate effect and "reduce the number of the workers in a normal proportions."

Listing the "four great sins of the statesmanship of Chamberlain" as delay in the counter attack, chronic unemployment, colossal drink bill, the spread of unemployment was a burden but a national task as the basis of the new undertaking.

Wrote of U. S. Estrangement, Viscount Rothermere, editor of the Manchester Guardian, declaring the United States had a pronounced opinion which will appear in tomorrow's issue under the heading: "Anglo-American Relations—A Grave Warning to Rothermere."

Lord Rothermere reviewed the course of action of the British government, declaring the British government should grow up between the United States. In its relations with America, blunder has blundered, Lord Rothermere declared.

Chas. French Naval, Lord Rothermere refers to the Geneva conference, secret naval pact with France, and the British blundering. "Right up to the present blundering of the British has continued," he says. "A recent example was the announcement of the British government that the British government was holding another naval conference. Now that the electorate is aroused it should insist on a clarification of our position with a foreign power for which the people of Great Britain have the profoundest regard and with whom they have a considerable blood tie. I make no mistake in saying that this government has gone out of office, and the United States will not only be the relation of the British and American international maritime relations, including questions of peace and contraband."
